

225 shipboard rooms promised before 1972 Tower builder, PSA in Mary hotel bid

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Henry Sassoon, who built the 31-story International Tower in Long Beach will be proposed Tuesday to the City Council as the developer of a 400-room hotel aboard the Queen Mary.

PSA Hotels, Inc., a subsidiary of Pacific Southwest Airlines, will be recommended as the sublessee to operate the hotel facilities.

City Manager John R. Mansell said his staff and "professional consulting personnel" evaluated two proposals for the hotel and determined that the Sassoon-PSA proposal "provides the highest economic return to the city and assures the city of the highest level of hotel operation on the Queen Mary."

Sassoon has guaranteed the city that at least 225 to 250 of the hotel rooms will be completed Dec. 31, and that he will "make every effort" to complete the balance of the shipboard rooms by the summer of 1972, Mansell said.

The city manager said Sassoon plans to invest $4 million in completion of the hotel spaces. The hotel will occupy the Main, A and B decks, with access and support areas on R deck.

Mansell said also that representatives of PSA and Specialty Restaurants Corp., which holds the master lease on all other commercial areas on the Queen Mary, have met and reached general agreement upon the coordination of hotel, restaurant and other commercial operations, including the working relationships necessary between the two parties.

The proposed lease with Sassoon will be for 25 years, with seven five-year option periods thereafter, on the same terms and conditions.

As part of the proposed agreement, the city would "use its best efforts" to secure for Sassoon a hotel site in the harbor district adjacent to the Queen Mary.

THE CITY will operate the "preferred parking lot," Mansell said, providing convenient parking for Queen Mary hotel guests. PSA Hotels, Inc., will reimburse the city for such parking at the prevailing per diem rate for general parking.

During the first 12 years of the lease, Sassoon would retain the first $500,000 of his gross receipts as an amortization allowance to insure adequate funds for his debt amortization for the required construction and other development costs.

The city would receive 10 per cent of Sassoon's gross receipts in excess of

U.S. in Mars race

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Mariner 9 raced flawlessly in pursuit of two Soviet Mars probes Sunday night in a bid to orbit the planet first next November and radio back thousands of closeup pictures.

The American television satellite performed one important operation after another during its first hours of flight and was reported following an unusually accurate 247-million-mile course to Mars.

Mariner 9 completed its vital orientation process at 7:26 p.m. PDT, four hours after launch, when it set its sights on the guiding star Canopus which it will watch as a celestial reference point for the next 5½ months.

"The spacecraft behavior is completely normal" said an official at the Mariner control center at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., after the craft "locked on" to Canopus.

The $65 million spacecraft quickly passed the point where Mariner 8 failed May 8, and was accelerated with precision to the 24,500 miles per hour speed needed to break earth's gravitational grip.

"We're on the way to Mars," said Deputy Space Agency Administrator George M. Low. He predicted the U.S. and Russia would share what their spacecraft discovered about the puzzling Red Planet late this year.

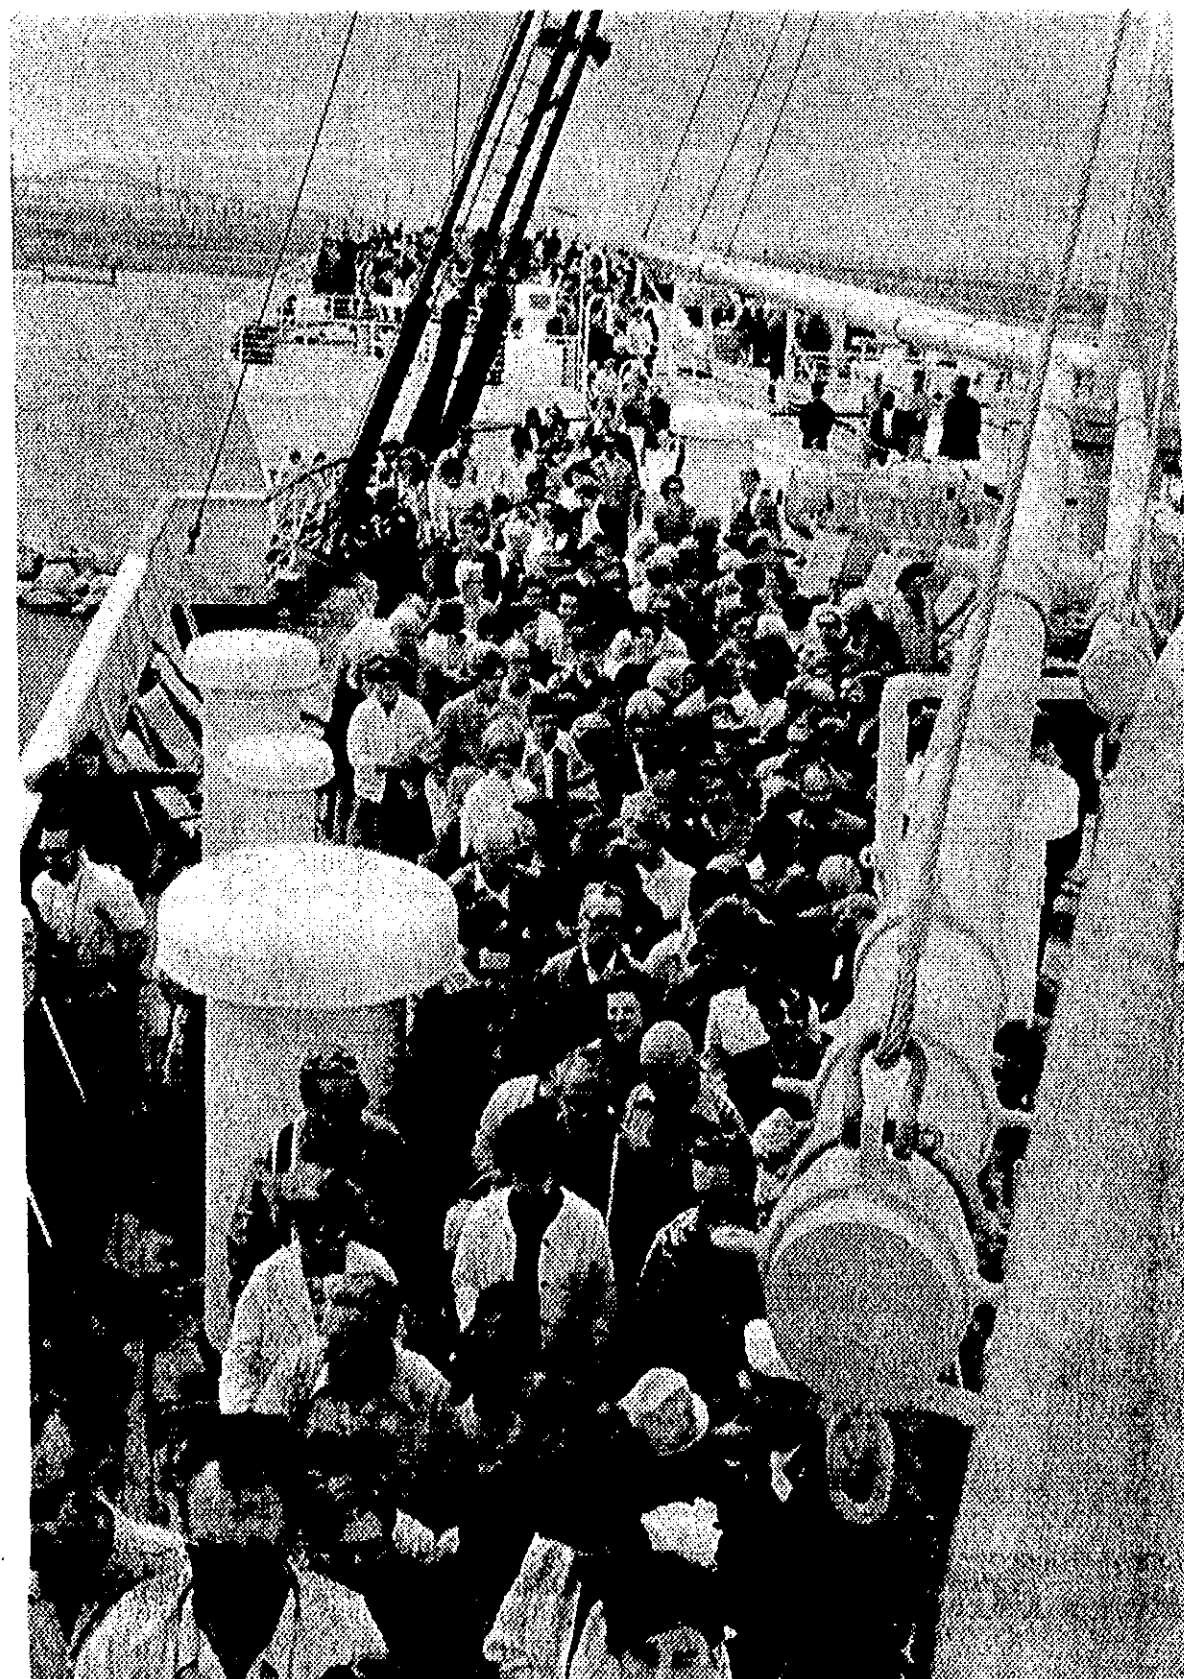

Still ahead for Mariner 9 was a normal course correction scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Aside from course changes which will be cued from earth, Mariner 9 will rely on its general computer and control system to maintain proper stabilization and to keep its systems healthy.

A Royal Squeeze

LARGEST CROWDS yet to tour the Queen Mary came aboard Sunday as this tight-squeeze scene on the bow illustrates. Tour officials said 15,000 people prowled the ship's decks during visiting hours. The Queen Mary will be open today—the first time for a three-day run—because of Memorial Day. The ship opens for tours at 9 a.m. The last tours are sold at 5 p.m.

Audie Murphy missing on Dixie flight

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — An airplane carrying Audie Murphy, the most decorated U.S. soldier of World War II, has been missing since Friday on a flight from Atlanta to Martinsville, Va., the Federal Aviation Administration said Sunday.

The plane, a twin-engine Aero Commander, left Peachtree-Dekalb airport in Atlanta Friday morning and was due in Martinsville at 11:15 a.m. the same day, the FAA said.

Murphy was going to Martinsville to inspect a plant there with the idea of investing in Modular Properties, an Atlanta-based firm which specializes in factory-built structures such as homes and motels.

BILL SPOON, sales manager of the firm, confirmed that Murphy boarded the airplane.

"There is no question about that," Spoon said. In addition to Murphy, those aboard the plane were identified as Claude Crosby, president of Modular Management, a subsidiary of Modular Enterprises; Jack Littleton, representing a group of investors from California; Raymond Prater, a Chattanooga, Tenn., attorney representing Modular Management; and Herman Butler, the pilot, from Crossville, Tenn.

Spoon said Murphy was representing himself and two groups of prospective investors. He flew to Atlanta on Thursday and was to inspect Modular of Martinsville, another subsidiary, Friday, Spoon said.

Spoon said the plane was chartered by Crosby to take the group to Martinsville.

Murphy, a winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor during World War II, became a Hollywood actor after the war. He wrote a book detailing his war experiences entitled "To Hell and Back."

Lady bartenders (where are you?) OK for L.B.

By STAN LEPPARD
Staff Writer

The State Supreme Court's rejection of a state law prohibiting women from tending bar doesn't mean Long Beach patrons should expect to find their favorite strips of mahogany immediately staffed by distaff barkeeps.

The high court's decision invalidating a section of the State Business and Professional Code that made it a misdemeanor for women to tend bar unless they or their husbands own the place was rendered last Thursday.

But while laws can be changed overnight, bartenders can't be made the same way, according to most Long Beach tavern owners checked for reaction.

The ladies apparently don't have a trained corps, equipped with union cards, ready for the change.

As far as could be determined, the only local situation that might have been immediately affected by the court ruling was nullified earlier by a change in employment.

This involved the case of Sandra Teresa Clark, 28, a bartender for three days at Misty's Cocktail Lounge, 1544 E. Fourth St., when she was cited Jan. 20 for mixing and serving a cocktail to a vice officer.

The weatherman promised only gray skies for the last day of the three-day Memorial Day weekend and the possibility of some rain in the inland sections of the Southland.

Absence of rain was promised for Long Beach area memorial services (Page B-1).

Long Beach's high was 69 degrees Sunday and a low of 58 degrees. Little temperature change is promised today or Tuesday.

4 or 5 more corpses feared in Yuba graves

YUBA CITY (AP) — The sheriff directing the search for bodies to add to the list of 23 murdered transients said Sunday he expects the discovery of at least four or five more.

"I don't believe the end is in sight," Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said. "I think there are more bodies out there."

His searchers dug the soggy grounds of a peach orchard in the Feather River gravesite area for 7½ hours Sunday, concentrating on three potential graves — indicated by depressions in the earth — but found no bodies.

Whiteaker said one site had a misleading odor of decay because "it was in a damp area."

He said a force of 25 men will fan out today across neighboring ranches to search for other possible graves.

He said he suspects four or five more graves at sunken-in areas of the J. L. Sullivan ranch where 21 bodies have been discovered. But searchers will have to wait until eight to 12 inches of irrigation water flooding the land recedes.

He said one of the potential gravesites there may be dry enough to dig "in a

Narcotics officer kills youth

An undercover Torrance narcotics officer shot and killed one of four youths early Sunday as he tried to arrest them in connection with a drug investigation.

Police said Michael Edward Inman, 17, of 4001 Sepulveda Blvd., Torrance, died at the scene, near Newton Street and Tandem Way, shortly after the 12:26 a.m. shooting.

A TORRANCE police spokesman said undercover officer Ron Traber "found himself" in the position of having to arrest the four youths by himself as they sat in a parked car.

Inman, seated behind the steering wheel, was struck by a single bullet in the chest after he "made sudden, furtive movements" when Traber accosted the four, the spokesman said.

The three others fled.

Q. I am an amateur musician and song writer. I have some material which I would like to register for a copyright, but I don't know anything about copyright procedure. Can ACTION LINE help? R.G.G., Compton.

A. First you must request an application for a musical composition copyright from the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., 20540. After completing the application, mail it with $6 registration fee and a copy of your music and lyrics, in sheet music form, to the copyright office. A copyright, which gives the author sole rights to record and publish the music, is valid for 28 years and may be renewed for an additional 28. If your music is published, you must file another application with the copyright office, to insure your rights to royalties from other people's recordings of your composition.

Nguyen Cao Ky, confirming he is in the running for South Vietnam's presidency, indicated Sunday he will run a middle-of-the-road campaign to defeat President Nguyen Van Thieu.

"There are two extremes," Ky told newsmen in Saigon. "Those who want peace through military victory and those who want peace at any price, including a coalition government. I think the realistic solution is somewhere in the middle."

Aside from Ky and Thieu, another possible candidate for October's presidential race is Gen. Duong Van Minh—also known as "Big Minh"—who favors neutralism for South Vietnam. Ky is a former premier and now is Thieu's vice president.

Simon marries Jennifer Jones

Raven-haired actress Jennifer Jones married millionaire art collector Norton Simon on a yacht Sunday off the English coast. It was the second marriage for the 64-year-old financier and the third for the Academy award-winning actress from Tulsa, Okla. Miss Jones, 52, won her Oscar in 1943 for "The Song of Bernadette" but has not been active in films for years.

The London Daily Mirror said the ceremony took place at 4 a.m. aboard a 45-foot yacht that was rocking so wildly a friend attending the wedding became sick. A Los Angeles friend said they would spend a few days in Europe and then fly to Los Angeles. Three friends, a customs officer and the boatman were the only witnesses to the ceremony, the newspaper said.

As one American official put it: "We were more worried that they would have too few candidates, rather than too many. If several people don't get into the race, it will look rigged."

Grads confront Rogers

Combined News Services

HAMILTON, N.Y. — More than a third of Colgate University's graduates—175 out of 479—stood up quietly Sunday afternoon to confront Secretary of State William P. Rogers with a pledge, "If drafted, we will not accept a combat role in Indochina." Hundreds of parents, faculty members and visitors arose after them in a sympathy demonstration at the call of the class valedictorian, Thomas W. O'Brien, 22, a Rhodes Scholar-designate, from New York City. Thirty-one hundred persons filled the Reid Athletic Center.

Earlier, Rogers, the principal speaker, called for foreign policy support from the young. Speaking at the 150th commencement of his alma mater, Rogers said it is clear beyond a challenge that "President Nixon is getting the United States out of the war in Vietnam." Rogers said the administration was searching for peace, with initiatives in the Middle East, in dealings with Communist China, arms control, combatting pollution on the international level and reducing America's military presence overseas.

Bunker Hill vigil

BOSTON — About 500 persons, many of them Vietnam veterans, spent Sunday night camped around the Bunker Hill Monument before marching this morning to Boston Common for an antiwar rally. Many of the veterans drove to Boston from Lexington, Mass., where they submitted to arrest Sunday morning rather than vacate their campground at the historic Lexington Green.

17 arrested at Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Seventeen persons, including George Sturgis Pillsbury Jr., 20, the great-grandson of the founder of the Pillsbury flour-milling empire, were arrested early Sunday morning while supporting a strike by Yale University service employees. They were accused of trying to block fuel oil deliveries at one of Yale's power plants.

Slain girl's rites

DREW, Miss. — Seven hundred persons, including the white officials of this community, jammed into a sweltering auditorium Sunday for the funeral of Jo Etha Collier, 18, a black girl slain by shots from a passing car on her graduation day.

It was in this same auditorium that Jo Etha graduated from Drew High School last Tuesday, one of 43 graduates, all but 14 of them Negroes. About 100 persons attended the brief gravesite ceremony and then quietly left the freshly mowed grounds.

Meeting of chiefs

THURMONT, Md. — President Nixon, spending the Memorial Day weekend at Camp David, has called a delegation of police chiefs and sheriffs to the White House Thursday to talk about a rash of police killings. Atty. Gen. John D. Mitchell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover will sit in.

Laird's position

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Sunday he emphasized during his talks with NATO allies the Nixon Doctrine of negotiating an East-West troop reduction in Europe from "a position of strength." He addressed newsmen at Andrews Air Force Base after returning from a week-long European trip.

Gravel on draft

WASHINGTON — Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, said Sunday the administration could let the draft law expire and still conduct the Vietnam War by dipping into the 500,000-man pool of persons who have student, occupational and other deferments and would still be liable under the current law even though it had expired.

Filibuster record

AUSTIN, Tex. — Sen. Don Kennard, D-Fort Worth, set a world filibuster record of 29 hours and 22 minutes Sunday night and successfully blocked passage of a bill he spent more than a day speaking against. Kennard, talking in an attempt to keep the University of Texas at Dallas a two-year upper level school, broke the record of 28 hours and 15 minutes at 9:44 p.m.

Terrorists hold girl hostage

KARTAL, Turkey — Two suspected terrorists wanted in the kidnap-murder of Israeli diplomat Ephraim Elrom shot and wounded two persons Sunday, then took a teen-age girl hostage and barricaded themselves inside her home. They demanded free passage out of the country in exchange for her release. Police said the two men, who fired on troops surrounding the house Sunday, had agreed to surrender by this morning. But their demand to be allowed to leave the country indicated they had changed their mind.

Suez hopes alive

TEL AVIV — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Sunday diplomatic efforts to reopen the Suez Canal still might succeed despite negotiating gaps between Israel and Egypt. He said this may be the "last opportunity" for saving the waterway, closed since the 1967 Middle East War. Cairo radio said President Anwar Sadat had referred to parliament for ratification the 15-year Soviet-Egyptian "unbreakable friendship" treaty which political sources in Cairo said meant Egypt could not go to war without Russian approval but the Soviets would be obliged to lend support if Israel attacked.

Old IRA trick

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Irish Republican extremists tarred and feathered a Belfast man Sunday in what they called an "internal action" of the illegal Irish Republican Army. The IRA, which advocates forcible unification of Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic, has used tar and feathers in the past to discipline members. Security sources said British troops have acquired a new type of American-made weapon called the "stun-gun" for possible use against rioters in Northern Ireland.

The War

SAIGON — Enemy forces launched the biggest number of attacks across South Vietnam in more than a month, with at least 54 shelling and half a dozen ground assaults reported over the weekend. South Vietnamese militiamen backed by armored vehicles, artillery and air strikes claimed a lopsided victory in the sharpest ground encounter. A Saigon communique reported they killed 154 enemy soldiers in a daylong battle near the district town of Dien Ban, 13 miles south of Danang, Sunday. The other encounters were relatively small, with South Vietnamese positions being the major targets.

U.S. holiday death toll soars, California lags

Motorists throughout the nation were meeting the grim predictions of the National Safety Council for a high death toll on the highways late Sunday, with 317 persons reported killed in holiday weekend traffic accidents.

But while traffic fatalities mounted toward the council's predicted figure of 470 to 550 deaths for the Memorial Day weekend, California traffic mishaps were claiming fewer lives than in past years.

Midway through the second day of the three-day holiday — which officially began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tonight — Ohio led all 50 states with 26 traffic fatalities. Seventeen persons were reported dead on California highways at that time.

An additional 66 persons nationally had died by 11 p.m. Sunday in a variety of other accidents.

In California's worst traffic accident, three Los Angeles residents were killed and eight others injured Sunday afternoon in a fiery three-car crash on the Santa Monica Freeway in West Los Angeles.

FAST GETAWAY

Boutique burgled of $8,200 clothes

Fast-moving burglars with an eye for fashion broke into a Palos Verdes Peninsula boutique early Sunday and made off with an estimated $8,200 worth of women's clothing.

Sheriff's deputies said the burglars smashed a window of the Beach Girl Boutique, at 31238 Palos Verdes Drive West, and entered the shop about 7:40 a.m.

Although deputies responded to an alarm within moments, a sheriff's spokesman said, the burglars were gone with 125 pant suits, 40 "boutique chains," six canvas hats and a red capri outfit.

But the burglars were too quick for their own good, deputies added, for they overlooked $450 in cash in the till and furs stored in the rear of the shop.

Uninsured

Q. My wife recently was stricken with cancer and within a very short period of time the medical expenses exceeded $4,000. Fortunately, my company insurance paid for most of the expenses, but a relative of mine who has very little money and no health insurance is wondering what would happen to her if she were to get sick. Are there any provisions under city or state laws that provide medical care if someone can't afford it? E.L., Long Beach.

A. Although there are county hospitals where indigent persons can receive treatment, there is no broad-based law providing for low-cost health insurance or medical care for average-income individuals who are not old enough to qualify for Medi-Care or similar state programs. A serious illness practically can bankrupt a family without adequate insurance. There are a number of bills currently before Congress to establish a national low-cost health insurance program such as the one introduced by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., which would cover about 70 per cent of all personal health care cost. However, Washington observers do not give these bills much chance of passing at this time.

Treated like a dog

Q. We lived in the Stanton Apartments, 10645 Beach Blvd., Stanton, from Aug. 1, 1968 to Feb. 27, 1970. When we moved in we paid a $100 refundable dog deposit. I have the receipt which states the money is refundable. When we moved the manager said she would submit to the apartment owners our request for the refund. We never heard a word from them. Finally, I wrote to the manager and she said the building had been sold and that the new owner was United Professional Planning Inc., 10889 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 1212, Los Angeles, Calif. 90024. I wrote to them and have not received an answer. Can ACTION LINE help? Mrs. O.D.J., West Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada.

A. No. A spokesman for United Professional Planning Inc., who refused to identify herself, told ACTION LINE that "if she hasn't got her refund by now, then I guess we felt she didn't deserve one. The apartment probably was left dirty." She refused to look into the matter.

Kiwi

Q. Two years ago I bought some fruit called kiwis. Since then I have not been able to find them. They are quite delicious and are grown in New Zealand. Can ACTION LINE find out where I can buy more of them? I would also appreciate any information you could give me on this fruit. W.M.S., Long Beach.

A. A kiwi by any other name would be a Chinese gooseberry. In fact, the Chinese gooseberry, a native New Zealand fruit, is called kiwi only when it is exported because the New Zealanders want the fruit to be associated with their country and not China. The vine-grown berry ripens to a brown fuzzy-textured lime-to-lemon-sized fruit. You use them like strawberries — raw, in salads, desserts or for cake decoration. They are in season from mid-June to November and are hard to find and expensive right now. Farmers Market, 6333 W. Third St. in Los Angeles, is the only place currently selling them that ACTION LINE could find. A large kiwi sells for 60 cents there. Most of local markets we contacted said the would carry kiwis at much lower prices when they begin arriving by ship in late-June.

Early Sunday morning, a San Diego man and his two-year-old daughter became the fifth and sixth California traffic fatalities of the long weekend in a car-truck collision in Las Cruces.

Police said Glen Roy Paggett, 24, and his infant daughter, Emmeko Paggett, were killed when Paggett's car failed to negotiate a curve on Interstate 10 and skidded broadside into a tractor-trailer rig.

Three other members of Paggett's family, including his 24-year-old wife Rose, were hospitalized.

While the traffic arteries of both Los Angeles and Orange Counties had remained safe throughout the day by late Sunday, at least three Southland residents died in out-of-state accidents.

Kathryn Christensen, 31, of Torrance, and Ivo Kent Wolcott, 28, of Anaheim, were killed in a three-car collision that also claimed two other lives on Highway 91 south of St. George, Utah.

A third Californian, 32-year-old Dennis B. Spencer, of Westchester, was reported dead in the crash which injured an additional three persons about 11:30 p.m. Friday.

In Bellevue, Nev., a 23-year-old airman from Santa Ana was killed Saturday when the car in which he was riding struck a utility pole.

Highway Patrolmen said Air Force S.Sgt. Larry J. Petruck, stationed at Offutt Air Force Base, died in the crash. Two other airmen from the same base were injured, patrolmen said.

Two men hit by snipers in Southland

United Press International

Sniping incidents Sunday took the life of a Willowbrook man and hospitalized a Pico Rivera resident who dodged five bullets but was struck by the sixth as he stood on his front lawn.

Sheriff's deputies said Frank D. Bryant, 25, was shot in the head at a gas station and died three hours later at a Lynwood hospital.

Authorities put out an all-points bulletin for a man and three women seen driving away from the scene.

In Pico Rivera, Eugene Fuentes was shot in the right shoulder after an unidentified man fired a volley of rifle shots from a distance of 150-feet. Fuentes was taken in fair condition to Pico Community Hospital.

Witnesses said the sniping incident involving Fuentes might have been in retaliation for a quarrel several days ago between him and the shooting suspect.

Tax hikes seen in next few years

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (AP) — A member of the Federal Reserve Board said Sunday Americans should expect tax increases, not tax cuts, in the next few years to pay for a growing demand for public services.

Andrew F. Brimmer said in the past few years, mainly because of the 1969 Tax Reform Act, "private consumption has been given a much higher priority over public spending than is consistent with our long-run requirements in the area of public service."

By 1975, he said, the demands for services will be so great, and budgets of federal, state and local governments so tight, that tax increases will be necessary.

In remarks at commencement exercises at Middlebury College, Brimmer said tax relief in the past has trimmed the amount of funds that governments can count on in the next few years to provide new services.

The tax reform of 1969 will reduce the government's "fiscal dividend," the automatic upswing in revenues because of a progressive tax structure, by about $10 billion by 1975, he said.

In addition, he said, President Nixon's decision to give businesses a tax break through liberalized depreciation allowances will cut into the government's revenue.

"Rather than looking forward to further tax reductions, all of us may have to accept the burdens of paying an even larger share of our already limited incomes in the form of higher taxes," he said.

"Moreover, despite the widely noted longing for a lessened role for government in our society, we may have to be prepared to see the government assume even greater responsibility for the provision of these common services which all of us demand — and which cannot be provided by any other means," he said.

Hike asked on interest bid on U.S.-backed home loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of a national organization of savings and loan associations urged the government Sunday to boost from 7 to 7½ per cent the interest ceiling on home loans backed by the FHA and the VA.

C.E. Bentley, president of the National League of Insured Savings Associations, said recent boosts in corporate bond interest rates have made some lenders reluctant to put money into 7 per cent mortgages.

"The gap between bond and mortgage rates is too wide — and investors are beginning to look away from the mortgage market," Bentley said. "This is going to have a bad impact on housing unless the rate is adjusted soon."

Bentley's remarks followed the comment last week by John A. Stastny, president of the National Association of Home Builders that a boost in the

FHA-VA ceiling may be "imminent."

The ceiling on loans backed by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration has been 7 per cent since Feb. 17.

Secretary George Romney of the Housing and Urban Development Department, which sets the rates, cut the ceiling three times in 12 weeks to drop it from the record 8½ which prevailed for most of last year to the current level.

Take initiative, says Harriman U.S. urged to slow arms race

NEW YORK (UPI) — W. Averell Harriman said Sunday it is up to the U.S. to take the initiative in slowing the arms race because the Soviet Union "is not mature enough."

In a television interview, the former chief American negotiator at the Paris peace talks, said the Russians are "awfully afraid" of being regarded as not strong enough to build more weapons and still attain domestic improvements.

"We're mature enough to be able to take that kind of criticism," the former ambassador said.

Harriman said both countries had their "hardliners" as well as people who are more conciliatory.

"Some feel that after 50 years of communism they ought to be doing a better job domestically. The people are demanding more ...," he said.

"Every time one of our hardliners shouts" about keeping up or ahead of the Russians, it stirs up Soviet hardliners and "weakens the arguments of those who want to be more cooperative."

Latin pay hike

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine government announced it will increase military and civil service wages by 30 per cent to compensate for the rise in living costs.

Solon tells Nixon vow to end war in 6 months

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Republican Congressman insisted Sunday that President Nixon told him privately in mid-1968 that he would end the Vietnam war in six months if elected. But a spokesman for the President said that was "untrue and ridiculous."

Rep. Donald W. Riegle of Michigan, a leader of insurgent GOP antiwar forces in the House, said he and one of his staff members were invited to Nixon's apartment on June 22, 1968 — just prior to the Republican National Convention. He said they discussed the Vietnam situation for about an hour-and-a-half.

"At the end of that time, he said to me, 'Don, you know if we are elected, we will end this war in six months,'" Riegle recalled.

"I did not expect him to make that statement, and I am not sure that I even thought about it as a commitment at that time . . . I don't think I would have been unreasonable enough to expect him to meet that. He said that on his own. . . Now if the President wishes to deny it, then I think that is another story.

"Private 1968 promise"

"But in fact it was said, and it was said just exactly the way I just related it to you."

The disclaimer came from White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who said he had talked to the president about the matter. "That statement is untrue and ridiculous," he declared.

RIEGLER AND Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., appeared together on the ABC-TV program "Issues and Answers."

Riegle said he supported Nixon's bid for the GOP nomination and election because he was led to believe the President would move quickly to get a peace settlement in Vietnam. He said he thought the voters who supported Nixon had the same impression.

Both congressmen said the President's failure to end the war and the prospect of a residual U.S. force in Vietnam for years to come were the main reasons for McCloskey's tentative plan to challenge Nixon in some Republican presidential primaries next year.

McCloskey said he intends to enter at least the Alaska and New Hampshire primaries unless Nixon changes his war policies or Congress votes to cut off money for U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Although he said his main disagreement with Nixon was over the war, McCloskey said he also opposed the administration on other issues.

"I hate to see the Republican Party abandoning its moral leadership in the race issue," he said.

"The leadership in race, the failure of this administration to be an open administration, to reveal facts and admit mistakes that perhaps derogate from the policies the administration would like to have the people support. The SST vote is a pretty good example."

Bayh nomination decision due next fall or winter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said Sunday he would decide next fall or winter whether to become an official candidate for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Meantime, Bayh said, "I have not tried to hide my concern about the type of leadership we have in this country." He said Americans are "losing faith" in the Nixon administration and what they want is for "people to talk straight with them."

Bayh, who helped engineer Senate defeat of President Nixon's nominations of Clement F. Haynsworth and G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court, said he would have to assure himself of a chance to win the nomination and election before formally getting into the presidential race.

China said preparing ICBM test

Breakthroughs in missile program believed near

By WILLIAM BEECHER
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — China, whose long-range missile program has lagged behind American predictions, appears on the verge of two important breakthroughs, in the view of some analysts here.

China is rapidly getting into position to test fire its first liquid-fuel intercontinental ballistic missile beyond its borders, probably into the Indian Ocean, they say.

IN ADDITION, China has built a solid-fuel production plant and is developing a solid-fuel ICBM, the analysts say.

The preparations for the launch beyond China's borders include the outfitting of a special tracking ship and the extension of missile range tracking stations in Sinkiang Province. But political considerations, the analysts say, may cause the Chinese to defer such testing for several months.

A senior weapons expert says that it is far from clear whether China will follow the pattern of the U.S. and the Soviet Union and first deploy liquid-fuel ICBM's before moving to solid-fuel weapons, or will start with the more stable solid-fuel system.

IT IS estimated that it will probably take at least three years, after initial tests, for China to move to its first group of operational ICBM's. The technology of solid fuels as well as liquid fuels should be mastered by that time, the weapons specialist suggested.

Most analysts agree that China is capable of launching an intercontinental missile any time it chooses. Some intelligence experts believe China has already done so, although on a shorter course.

Late last year, they say, China fired a three-stage missile from a new launch site in northeast Manchuria into western Sinkiang Province, over a 2,200-mile course. Some analysts, on the basis of the size of the stages as seen in reconnaissance photos and other evidence, calculated that the missile could have been fired at least 3,500 miles, which would have carried it out over India into the Indian Ocean.

IN ARMS-CONTROL talks, the U.S. and Russia have defined an ICBM as any ballistic missile that can travel over 3,000 miles.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told Congress in March about the probability of China's capacity to launch such a missile when he said: "The start of testing has not yet been confirmed, but a reduced range test of an ICBM may have occurred in late 1970."

Analysts say the 2,200-mile shot was believed to have been made with a liquid-fuel missile similar to the rockets that China used to orbit a 381-pound satellite in April, 1970, and a 486-pound satellite in March.

The first out-of-country tests are expected to range between 3,500 and 4,500 miles. The Indian Ocean is considered the most likely landing point, but some analysts say that a test firing into the Pacific Ocean is not ruled out.

$500,000, or the first $65,000 of gross receipts in excess of $500,000 whichever is higher.

All additional gross receipts during the first 12 years would be divided equally between Sassoon and the city.

During the 13th through 25th years, Sassoon would retain the first $450,000 of his gross receipts, rather than $500,000, and other provisions would be the same as in the first 12 years.

DURING any option renewal term, the city and Sassoon would divide gross receipts equally.

Mansell said that because the identity of, and terms and conditions for, operation of the hotel "are of paramount importance to the city," Sassoon and PSA Hotels, Inc., have agreed that the terms and conditions of the sublease between them "shall be subject in their entirety" to city approval, and that the sublease shall be negotiated and executed, and approved by the city prior to, or concurrent with, the city's approval of the final contract with Sassoon.

The agreement also proposes that both Sassoon and PSA Hotels, Inc., shall be responsible directly to the city with respect to their development and operation of the hotel.

PSA Hotels, Inc., letter of intent to Sassoon provides that during the first 10 years of the sublease, they shall pay 30 per cent of the first $1 million in gross revenues, 27.5 per cent of the next $2 million, plus 25 per cent of all gross revenue in excess of $3 million.

AFTER the first 10 years of the sublease, PSA Hotels, Inc., would pay a straight 30 per cent of gross revenues.

City staff estimates show that the city would receive between $7 and $9.6 million over the first 25 years of the lease, based on the above formulas, "with provision for only moderate inflationary trends."

Mansell said Sassoon, of 4120 Locust Ave., "has had extensive experience in the development of multimillion-dollar projects, both in this country and in Canada." In addition to the International Towers at 666 E. Ocean Blvd, he also built the 15-story apartment building at 600 E. Ocean Bl.

The city manager said that PSA, in common with many major airlines, has many major airlines, has established a hotel operation which complements its airline business. It already operates several hotels in California, including the Islandia in San Diego and the San Franciscan in San Francisco.

Mansell said PSA officials have told him they desire to have a hotel operation in cities where they provide airline service, and are "enthusiastic" about their proposed operation of the hotel aboard the Queen Mary.

The airline company has developed a "dynamic and successful" package-tour program through its airline, hotel and rent-a-car operations, Mansell said, and currently has a working relationship for package tours with the Disneyland Hotel.

Congressman claims FBI crashed lawmakers' meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Life magazine said Sunday an FBI agent crashed a private meeting in the Washington hotel room of Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., and other congressmen and aides, took notes, then denied he was an FBI man and ran out.

The magazine said Anderson related the episode in connection with sending a letter to the chairman of the House Judiciary Committee asking that a permanent subcommittee be established to keep an eye on law enforcement activities that now are "responsive to no higher authority."

'Polite, gentle . . . never smiled'

L.B. woman tells of Corona

By BILL DUNCAN
Staff Writer

Juan Vallejo Corona, the accused slayer of 23 transient fruit pickers, was a polite, gentle man who never failed to offer a pleasant greeting to farm workers he transported to the fields, a Long Beach woman who worked as a field hand remembered Sunday.

"But I can't recall ever seeing him smile, not even when he said 'good morning' or 'good evening,'" Anna Irene Cornish Murdock, 70, of 326½ W. 14th St. said in an interview.

"I'm just a retired fruit tramp and what I say probably won't amount to a hoot in hell, but I'm shocked at the charges. I just don't see how that man could possibly do what they say he has done," she continued.

The charges she can't believe are that Corona brutally hacked 23 male fruit pickers to death and then buried their bodies in shallow graves alongside the Feather River in Yuba City.

"Why he drove me right out to Jack Sullivan's ranch on his old dilapidated school bus after picking me up at the fruit tramp corner and he'd pick me up in the afternoon and drive me back along with 15 or 20 other hands," she said, puffing on a stub of a cigarette. "I can't say one word against him. I'd have to lie to you if I did."

Many of the bodies were found buried on the Sullivan ranch.

Mrs. Murdock said she had to retire from prune picking this year because her advancing age "set my bones to aching." She moved to Long Beach two months ago from the Marysville area across the river from Yuba City and is now living on a pension.

She wasn't surprised that only Anglos have been found as victims.

"There was always fights between the Anglos and the Mexicans," she said. "But that's natural among the workers. It is a mess but it has been going on ever since I put my foot in the first cotton field up in Bakersfield when I was only 15."

She said she was orphaned at age 11 and "I had to work to eat. I have no regrets about my life. I had no education so farm labor kept me from starving. I met a lot of interesting people in the migrant labor farm camps. Once you get in farm work it is awful hard to get out."

Mrs. Murdock said that men like Juan

Corona are an important part of the migrant worker's life. They provide jobs, transportation and generally see that the migrant gets a fair shake.

"There are some bad apples but I'd never say Juan Corona was that kind," she mused. "I can't figure that man would kill anybody."

Police have not revealed any motive for the slayings but Mrs. Murdock says she can understand how a migrant worker could disappear and not be missed.

"Many are winos who work short periods of time for the price of a bottle. Nobody gives a damn about them and I don't think anybody really cares now even when they dig up the bodies," she lamented.

She thinks something should be done to register farm workers to keep track of them. "Who knows how many more have just disappeared when it comes time for them to get paid off? I ain't making no charges, you understand."

Looking back over her hard life as a field hand, she recalled her average earnings for 10 to 12 hours work a day was $3.50. "Sometimes, if you worked to beat hell you could get $7 a day, but boy you worked for that and had to spend all the extra money you made on Ben Gay to iron out stiff and sore muscles," said the 5 foot 1 inch grey-haired woman who now gets around with the aid of a cane.

"It is a helluva life, but by God I'm not ashamed that I'm a retired fruit tramp. It is an honest living."

SEARCH FOR BODIES

few days," but the others will be too muddy for at least a week.

He said deputies completed a "foot - by - foot search" of the Sullivan ranch except for the flooded northeast corner.

Asked if he feels those submerged potential gravesites are the last, Whiteaker replied: "I hope so, but well . . ." and shook his head.

Searchers will work adjoining orchards "because they are in such close proximity and such easy access" to whoever buried the bodies on the Sullivan ranch.

How large an area will be searched? "I don't have any idea. We'll see what we find," said Whiteaker, who has been on duty almost constantly since the first body was found 11 days ago.

Juan V. Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor charged with 10 of the murders, was moved from the Sutter County jail to the newer Yuba County jail across the river in Marysville.

Corona's wife Gloria, his brother Pedro and his mother, Mrs. Candida Corona of Autlan, Jalisco, Mexico, spent about two hours with the prisoner Sunday morning.

THEY arrived with Corona's lawyer, Public Defender Roy Van Den Heuvel, and an interpreter. To avoid newsmen, they drove into a garage area beneath the jail. When they left the two women covered their heads with their coats, and lay on the seat of the car.

Van Den Heuvel refused to comment on the meeting except to identify the family members.

Whiteaker said he ordered the transfer, which was completed early Sunday, because his tiny jail is not adequate to keep a prisoner in isolation.

He said security was no problem, but at the newer jail deputies would be able to keep Corona under constant surveillance, which they could not do.

was delayed pending the outcome of test cases then before the State Supreme Court. Since that time, Miss Clark has left her job at Misty's.

When Miss Clark was ticketed, bar owner Roy F. Gerrard indicated he was eager for any municipal court battle, pending disposition of the one already joined in higher courts.

"When a woman belongs to the international, and I've got an ad in the paper for a bartender, and she's got her police card and everything, and she's efficient, I don't see why I can't hire her," he said.

The Supreme Court ruling was made on a petition brought by three Southern California bars to prevent the State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control from revoking their licenses because they hired women bartenders. The bars were the Classic Cat and The Phone Booth, both in Hollywood, and Giannone's Steak House, in Pasadena.

The high court based its ruling to invalidate the state law on three grounds that the law:

—Violates the equal protection clauses of the state and federal constitutions.

—Conflicts with a provision of the state constitution which provides that a person may not be disqualified because of sex from entering or pursuing a lawful business, vocation or profession."

—Conflicts with a section of the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Long Beach bar owners, queried on what local effect the new ruling might have, generally agreed it all remains to be seen.

"If a woman bartender applies, and she has the credentials and qualifications, she will be given the same consideration as a man," one said.

cell in the Marysville facility that holds 155 prisoners.

Local police had problems with holiday sightseers who caused a traffic jam along the two-lane highway near the gravesites.

At the sheriff's office, telephone calls poured in from around the country from people wondering if their relatives were among those murdered. About 800 phone calls were recorded since Friday, sometimes at the rate of one a minute.

Stacks of mail were also delivered, offering advice on possible motives and telling officials how to handle the gruesome case.

Plane crash kills 3, sets brush fire Argentine leftists release diplomat

A light plane crashed into a thinly populated hillside in the Antelope Valley area Sunday, killing the three persons aboard.

The crash set off a small brush fire, but it was quickly put out, said the Los Angeles County Fire Department. Twelve units and a helicopter rushed to the scene, about six miles south of Palmdale.

Dick Friend, fire department information officer, said it was believed the plane, a Cessna 210, came from the Oxnard area.

ROSARIO, Argentina

(UPI) — British Consul Stanley Sylvester was released by terrorist kidnappers after a week's captivity Sunday for a $62,000 ransom of food, clothing and household goods distributed to the poor. He rode home in a taxi.

"Good morning, gentlemen," he told a crowd of newsmen on the front lawn of his cottage.

"AS YOU can see, I am well and I am happy to return home and be with my family."

The 58-year-old honorary consul and meat packing plant manager was hustled inside by police for questioning by intelligence agents and a tearful reunion with his wife, Sally, and their two grown sons.

Officials of the Swift meat packing plant bought Sylvester's release from the leftist "People's Revolutionary Army" (ERP) with $62,000 worth of food, clothing, blankets, school supplies and other items given to the poor Friday and Saturday.

Sylvester was released in a quiet part of this city where more than 3,000 local and federal anti-terrorist police had been searching for a week with dogs and helicopters.

THE CONSUL was released about 8 a.m., almost the same hour when he was taken by three armed terrorists from in front of his home May 23. He spotted a taxicab parked in front of a house, knocked on the door and asked the cab owner to drive him home.

"He asked me if I owned the car," cab driver Santiago Mugueta told newsmen. "I told him yes so he identified himself and asked me to drive him home."

The kidnappers never made any pretense of kidnapping the Argentine-born Sylvester because he was a consul, although he held dual Argentine and British citizenship.

MARS

el-like precision, is scheduled to reach Mars Nov. 14, fire its own rocket engine and swing into orbit around the Red Planet.

It carries two telescopic television cameras and other instruments to map the cratered Martian surface, analyze the thin Mars atmosphere and search for low, warm and damp spots that might harbor primitive forms of life.

THE START of Mariner 9's long trip went well. Its Atlas-Centaur rocket took off at 3:23 p.m. PDT, after a six minute countdown delay, and rode a bright orange flame into the clear sky. It accelerated smoothly over the Atlantic.

Five minutes after blast-off, Mariner 9's rocket passed the point where its predecessor failed. The Centaur upper stage remained on course and a launch control spokesman reported "Mariner is go."

The spacecraft performed a critical maneuver 55 minutes after launch when it sighted and turned its solar panels toward the sun. The probe then started to convert solar energy into electricity to recharge its batteries.

Mariner 9, launched 12 days behind schedule, represents America's last chance to explore Mars before 1976, when two big Viking robots will attempt to land there and search for life.

SOVIET commentators have hinted that Russia's two 10,253-pound spacecraft may attempt a landing this year. U.S. specialists expect them to try at least to orbit Mars. No spacecraft has yet attempted to orbit another planet.

The Russians' Mars 2, launched May 19, has a 1½-million-mile lead over Mariner 9. Mars 3 was launched Friday and is several hundred thousand miles from earth.

Mariner project officials, however, believe the Soviet craft are following slightly longer courses and that Mariner 9 will reach the planet close to Mars 2's arrival. Mars 3 is expected to get there in late November. Russia has said only that the flights will take about six months.

1,800 miles from home 4 children deserted in L.B. bus depot

By TOM WILLMAN

Four wide-eyed blond children are in Southland foster homes today after their mother apparently abandoned them in a Long Beach bus station with instructions to find their way home — 1,800 miles away in Illinois.

Police found the Sikorski children — Joan, 6, Chris, 8, Tony, 9, and the elder sister charged with their care, 11-year-old Georgette — sitting calmly late Saturday night in the cafe of the downtown Greyhound bus terminal.

Their mother dropped them off there, advising them to "behave, don't talk to anybody and make sure you get back to Illinois" where their grandmother lives, police said.

BUT THEY apparently were given no bus tickets — only a single suitcase filled with clean and dirty clothes for all of them and $2 to make the trip home.

Then, according to police juvenile officer Jim Cook, their mother apparently drove off to continue a journey she began last February in Spring Grove, Ill., with her five children.

Mrs. Sikorski's whereabouts are unknown Cook said, as is her destination.

Relatives in Illinois Sunday said that Mrs. Sikorski headed for Orlando, Fla., in February, and soon after left her eldest child — a 15-year-old boy — with relatives on her side of the family.

The children's uncle, Fred Sikorski, of Box Lake, Ill., also indicated, however, that if the mother's physical burdens are eased, she still may carry another burden in her mind that could make the rest of her journey aimless: She "hasn't been able to find herself" since early 1970, the uncle said, when her husband Norbert died in an auto accident.

LAST YEAR, SAID THE UNCLE, he took custody of the children for several weeks when the mother's emotional problems disrupted her family.

He now plans to seek permanent custody of all five Sikorski children. Tuesday, juvenile officer Cook will petition the court to give temporary custody of the youngsters to the state of California.

The uncle said he also plans to negotiate the children's return to Illinois from Long Beach following the court's decision.

Meanwhile, 11-year-old Georgette has been relieved of her mother's last-minute charge to "take care of the little ones."

The two girls are in a temporary foster home in Long Beach, and the boys are living with a family in Cerritos.

Georgette fulfilled her mother's final instructions, though. When Long Beach Police Officer Mike J. Peters and Walt Puhlmann arrived in the bus station Saturday night, the children were calm and orderly.

Georgette showed police her copy of a note given to each child in ironic foresight by the mother. It gave each youngster's name, the name of their grandmother in Illinois and a telephone number.

Georgette told officers her mother had instructed the children to give the notes to a policeman if they were ever lost or separated.

But when officers brought the children to the juvenile bureau on the police station's fourth floor, investigators discovered the telephone number on the notes was incorrect.

THAT BECAME the first of several major stumbling blocks for Cook, who is now in charge of the case, and his fellow investigators.

So while the Sikorski children happily ate breakfast cereal and watched the late show on color television, juvenile officers began work on the case.

By Sunday morning, Cook managed to contact the youngsters' grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Sikorski, at her northeastern Illinois home.

She had received an anonymous telephone call Saturday, during which a man gave her the phone number of the bus station where her grandchildren had been left, officers said.

She could not understand the first three digits, however, and did not learn the children were safe until called by Cook Sunday.

If the Sikorski children are in limbo now, it may be more pleasant than their last few months. Volunteers to house the youngsters temporarily were found with little trouble.

And Cook, who has two children of his own, found extra clothes and a new traveling bag for the young Sikorskis to use.

He regretted having to split the four youngsters up for the rest of their Long Beach stay, and personally drove them to their temporary foster homes — not always part of the job of a juvenile officer.

Like others on the case, he explained, he was attracted to the four wide-eyed waifs.

IT FLIES 365 DAYS A YEAR
Mrs. Hempel and Daughter Ginger

Wreath placed at empty grave

Mrs. Virginia D. Hempel again today will lay a wreath on an empty grave at Westminster Memorial Park.

The empty grave is for son, Barry, killed May 10, 1968, at age 20, in Vietnam. He was a Marine killed in a fierce molar attack at Quang Tin Province, and his body was never recovered.

Mrs. Hempel maintains the vacant grave as a memorial for her son, who had been in Vietnam seven months when he died. As an added memorial, she flies an American flag 24 hours a day at her home, 10522 Mahalo Way, in Garden Grove. Each May 10, neighbors join in remembering the young Marine by flying flags, and today they also will have flags flying in his memory.

L.B. area services

The times and participants for Memorial services today in the Long Beach area include:

Long Beach — 1:30 p.m. in Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium; Keith Houdyshell, Mayor Edwin W. Wade; Col. N.H. Barnhart of Ft. MacArthur and N.E. Erickson of El Toro Marine station; Assistant Police Chief William Kummer; the Municipal Band; Poly High ROTC and Peterson Legion Post 27.

Long Beach — 2 p.m. aboard reserve submarines USS Roncador at Naval Station; Commandant Rear Adm. J.W. Williams of 11th Naval District, L.A. Chapter Submarine Veterans of World War II.

Lakewood — 11 a.m. at Jose del Valle Park, 5939 Henrilee St.; Mayor Charles Schweitzer; Congressman Richard T. Hanna; Kingmen and Yankee Doodle Dandies drum corps and Legion Post 496.

Compton — at City Hall, 205 S. Willowbrook Ave. wreath-laying by veterans organizations; at noon at Angeles Abbey Memorial Park, 1515 E. Compton Blvd., U.S. Sen. Alan B. Cranston, D-Calif.; Mayor Douglas Dollarhide; United Veterans Council and Ft. MacArthur firing squad.

Paramount tot dies of meningitis

A 3-year-old boy has died of meningitis after being stricken at his Paramount home. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation from a Lakewood station sheriff's deputy proved futile.

Robert Thompson, son of Charlene Thompson, 8330 Alhambra Ave., died at County-USC Medical Center of pneumococcal meningitis.

Hospital and health department officials said Sunday it is not the highly contagious form of meningitis which has caused so many deaths on military bases. The epidemic form of meningitis is meningococcal.

The child reportedly became ill on Wednesday. On Thursday morning, two Lakewood sheriff's deputies, Dan Pollack and Sgt. Gary Osborn, responded to an emergency call from the child's mother. They found the child was pale and his breathing shallow.

THE DEPUTIES rushed him to Bellflower Community Hospital while Sgt. Osborn administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. From there the child was taken to the medical center, where he died Friday. The two deputies are taking preventive medication.

Philip Tremblay, investigator for the County Health Department, advised persons having close personal contact with the victim to consult their physicians.

Charles Copfer, an uncle of the victim, was rushed to the County-USC Medical Center Sunday morning, but hospital officials reported he does not have meningitis.

Long Beach, Anaheim and Torrance are among 13 U.S. cities receiving awards of excellence from the American Automobile Association for low pedestrian casualty figures and accident prevention programs.

The association named four other cities and the state of Kansas as the grand award winners in its 32nd annual inventory of pedestrian safety. Two of the four top cities were San Diego and Los Angeles.

Elected with Gregory were these top officers:

terez, financial secretary; Al Tesch, guide, and Edna Williams, recording secretary.

Gregory won in a runoff with Tiny Rice. He polled 2,302 votes to Rice's 1,371. Twenty officers were selected in the elections.

Always too busy working At 103, he has first birthday party

By ARLINE SHERER
Staff Writer

It took 103 years, but Harry Range finally had a birthday party.

Fellow patients and convalescent home staff members surprised the talkative senior citizen Sunday with two birthday cakes and many gifts. "The party was one of the finest things in my life," Range said. "I never had a party before — I was too busy working."

Born near Placerville, Calif., Range has worked since age 12 when he ran away to sea. "My father believed in education and sent me to a British school in Sacramento. I stayed four months, but became enamored of a three-mast sailing vessel. I told the ship's captain I was an orphan — one of the biggest lies I ever told — and he let me sign on," Range said.

Dick Gregory here for OIC benefit

Comedian Dick Gregory is scheduled to head up entertainment for a fund benefit Saturday for the Long Beach Opportunities Industrialization Center.

Ralph McKnight, committee chairman for the benefit, said it will start at 8:30 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium.

Other performers include the Art Reynolds group and the Penn Family Trio, McKnight said.

Proceeds go to the OIC, which operates a job training and rehabilitation program for disadvantaged persons at 1325 Alamitos Ave. Tickets are $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for students if purchased at the door, or $4 and $2 if purchased in advance.

The ship carried grain, lumber, hides and tallow from California to England. Range spent four years aboard her. He started out as a cabin boy — shining the captain's shoes, polishing brass and picking over tons of vegetables.

The ship's officers taught him the rudiments of navigation, and the "rough" sailors showed him the essentials of seamanship, "such as tying knots."

The sea became Range's love, although he did find time to marry an English woman and raise four daughters. Range served in the U.S. Navy in the Spanish-American War, World War I and World War II. During World War II, he was a lieutenant commander of a group of 16 tugboats.

"We helped in the invasions of the Philippines," he said. "The tugs would carry medical supplies and ammunition to be unloaded by the troops."

After retiring from the Navy, Range became a volunteer in the Salvation Army. He served until his eyesight began to fail.

Although somewhat limited by his blindness, Range still stays active. Daily, he saunters through the Woodruff Convalescent Center in Bellflower, sporting a French cane which contains a concealed 8-inch blade. He confesses to having a 53-year-old girlfriend, Nola Baker of Long Beach, whom he describes as "being a perfect lady." He has a sharp memory and opinions on issues of the day, from welfare to women.

With a perspective of 103 years, Range believes the United States has deteriorated:

"We are a fourth class nation. We are not the power we once were because we have gotten involved with other countries. Hiram Johnson, one-time California governor, used to warn us to keep our noses out of European affairs, and he was right. Johnson tended to cleaning up the rackets and corruption in California. We need someone like him now."

He thinks others have a chance of reaching 103 if they "live decently."

Dinghy stolen

James A. Woolfelt, of Orange, told Long Beach Police Sunday that thieves removed a dinghy and other marine equipment valued at $919 from his 28-foot sailboat while it was docked in front of 6161 Bay Shore Walk.

READER comment continues to flow in here, positive and sometimes a little sharp on a variety of subjects. I've always figured readers' views were as good as mine, if not better, and deserve exposure. So let's go with some excerpts from the pile:

DEAR M.E.:

I am appalled at non-nautical language your paper sometimes uses in reference to the Queen Mary, such as the "front door." The Queen is here because she's a ship and Long Beach is a sea-going city. — CAPT. BOYD KENDALL (USCG Ret.) (M.E. note: Right, but the QM is now a building, you know.)

You had an item about a boy collecting newspaper bundles at Horace Mann School. He doesn't hold the record. I collected 11 bundles one-foot tall for April 24 and later 63 bundles. I'm home now with the chicken pox. I am eight years old and in the second grade. — MARLA BAKER.

What about long-haired employees working around food? Years ago anybody with long hair who did this work had to wear hair nets. I say, hair nets for those males with long tresses as well as female. MARCEL O'BRYAN

FOR some time I've been thinking of a way we might help police. When the police helicopter circles around and around over a neighborhood at night, it might give the crew significant aid if residents there would flip on outdoor lights. That would discourage any fugitive from taking refuge in the yards. — NEAL MILLER.

You used a note from a Mrs. Wendt who suggested senior citizens do charity and civic work instead of "sitting around bored." I belong to a group of seniors which not only has fun but takes part in many community projects such as sewing for Veterans and Children's Hospitals, aiding the handicapped, etc. — MRS. DIAN W. MORRIS.

BLEEDING hearts at the Independent, Press-Telegram have cried crocodile tears about the elderly and restrictions on their use of the sidewalks for their electric cars. There's another side. The sidewalks were turned into regular freeways for electric cars, and three wheelers. Many pedestrians have had to jump for their lives and some have been hit. One woman died. I claim many electric car drivers are not handicapped and would be better off if they did more walking. — MRS. H. KOVAK.

A newspaper article reports the hospitals are having financial difficulties because they have empty beds in turn due to the fact many people can't afford to go to a hospital. So they are going to raise prices. It seems to me that is exactly the wrong way to solve the problem. When hotels have empty rooms they cut prices to fill them. — MONA E. KING.

Have you noticed that the two-cent stamps (Frank Lloyd Wright issue) we are now using to make the old six-cent stamps good are printed in black ink? Is this in mourning for the erstwhile lower rates, like the two-cent first class letter rate of years ago? — LEON W. DUPOY.

THE Highway Dept. has reported funds are available but it will be next year before contract is let on extending the Artesia Freeway from the L.B. intersection to the city limits of Carson. Our organization, North Long Beach Commercial Club, asks why this section has been delayed so many times. More than once money for it has been diverted to something else. There is plenty of machinery and labor now and let's move out and do this job this year without delay. — ANSON BROWNE.

It seems to me, after hearing Sen. Edward Kennedy's remarks about profit-making in the medical profession, that he would indeed like to take the profit out of everything except being a Senator. — BILL APPEL.

Black aide for Thurmond

Sometimes big news in Washington may be found in small occurrences.

One such case, we suspect, was the hiring by South Carolina Sen. Strom Thurmond of a black aide.

This marked the first time the senator had placed a Negro on his staff. It probably has more significance than that. It could well signal a slackening of the race issue in southern politics, so far as white voters are concerned. It may also indicate a growing interest on the part of such southerners as Thurmond in wooing the Negro vote.

THURMOND'S STAND on racial matters was clear-cut and conservative in the past. The fact that no one could accuse him of being a longtime exponent of civil rights probably made it easier for him to hire a black than it would be for other southern politicians whose white constituents suspect them of harboring secret integrationist thoughts.

That may help explain the fact that even in racially more moderate North Carolina Senators B. Everett Jordan and Sam Ervin Jr. have no black staff members.

THE COMMENT OF an Ervin aide is instructive. "I would call this situation the logical outgrowth of a cultural pattern," he told a North Carolina newspaperman. "We look for people with similar leanings and loyalties. Perhaps blacks wouldn't feel comfortable here, or enjoy rapport."

Now that a black is in Strom Thurmond's office — even if he may not feel especially comfortable — it seems likely this "logical outgrowth of a cultural pattern" will give way in other senatorial offices.

THERE IS THE LOGIC of political patterns to consider, too. With the Negro vote becoming more important in the South, that logic is likely to dictate many changes in congressional offices, of which the appointment of a black aide by Senator Thurmond is just the beginning.

Newton's way to church

It would be hard to imagine a more cynical approach to church going than that of Black Panther boss Huey P. Newton.

"We're going to go to church and get involved in the church and the black community," Newton told theology students in Berkeley. "We want and need the support and favor of the black community."

THE CHURCH, he explained, "is the one institution the whole black community is involved in one way or another."

What other editors say

(From Greensboro, N.C., Daily News)

While Americans have been busy arguing about such issues as the war in Vietnam and the danger of radioactive fallout getting in the beer supply and DDT in the milk, the decline of the shoe shine parlor has gone almost unnoticed.

Twenty-five years ago everybody who was anybody or aspired to be somebody got his shoes shined at least once a week at a shoe shine parlor.

A pair of highly polished oxfords notified the world that the owner was on the ball and solvent. But today the bootblack seems to be going the way of the blacksmith, the barber and the buffalo hunter.

TODAY SHINED SHOES are frowned upon by the rising generation of antimaterialists, some of whom also frown on shoes. That attitude has to a large extent bridged the generation gap. Nick Russos, the proprietor of a once-busy shoe shine parlor in downtown Raleigh told Jim Linn of The Raleigh News and Observer recently that changing attitudes and styles have knocked the bottom out of the shoe shine business.

Going to church is not necessarily the same as getting religion, and Newton made it clear that his plan is to use the church rather than to let the Lord use him.

STILL THERE IS ALWAYS a chance that the church, which proved too strong for the Panthers when they were outside it, will sway them once they get into it.

We don't envy Newton's pastor his job, but we wish him every success.

ago. Another problem is finding shoe shine men or boys.

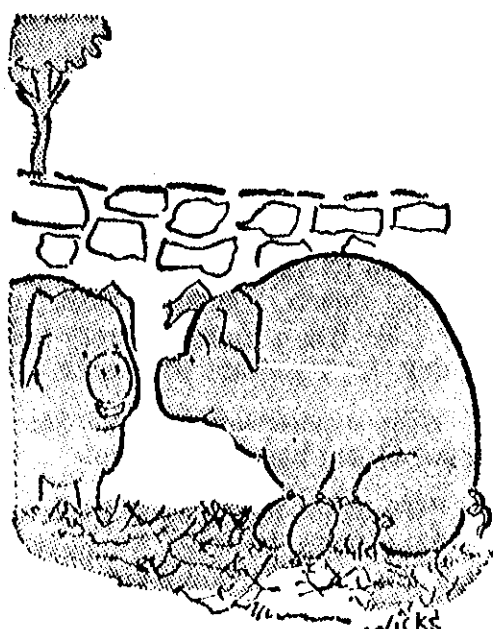

The average male considers the job too menial. Calling them "footwear engineers" doesn't seem to help much, as Mr. Russos pointed out.

Also there are fewer pedestrians in downtown sections and more parking lots. And fewer shoes are made of leather today.

"AS FAR AS I can see," Mr. Russos was quoted as saying, "the business is a dying thing, almost a thing of the past already."

Sad as it is, he is probably right. What disturbs us even more than the twilight of the shoe shine is the possibility that the human foot itself will become an obsolete appendage as the motorization of America goes into its ultimate phase.

Israel nodding to U. S. peace view

JERUSALEM — Israel has now, if skeptically and slowly, come around to the United States view that an interim settlement of the Palestine War is both desirable and probably feasible and that such an interim settlement could logically be expected to pave the way for definitive peace.

This, despite doubts and quibbles, can be assessed as the fundamental achievement of the initiative begun by Secretary of State Rogers in 1969 and recently followed up by his visit to this country, Jordan and Egypt.

There are political rivalries inside Israel and sharp differences in some interpretations of the prospect of even a renewed cease-fire. Jerusalem has its hawks and doves and some who waver between the extremes. Mrs. Meir, the premier, is unquestionably among those who doubt Arab intentions and stress strategic security over political peace.

Nevertheless, for the first time one can note willingness to contemplate Israeli withdrawal from advanced positions. This extraordinary little nation has never had real frontiers, only truce lines marking where the last war ended. Now there is growing recognition that these must be pulled back in an interim first stage settlement that would see the Suez Canal reopened and would also measure ultimate prospects of negotiations for a durable peace.

"SUCH AN INTERIM settlement would be a test case in miniature," says Foreign Minister Abba Eban, "a laboratory for final peace if it is respected. If such an interim agreement can be negotiated, concluded and respected, the whole psychological situation will change."

Nevertheless, Israel is not sure about the timing even if it concedes such a step is desirable. When Rogers was here he stressed that there must be action soon because, is this does not occur, prospects will go sour. Israel agrees that the fruit of settlement is visible on the tree but argues it is not yet ripe, much less over-ripe. The United States insists it is ripe and if not plucked soon will turn rotten.

Israel says it is available for negotiation but not for a dictated peace. It concedes that Egyptian President Sadat seems really to be moving his country into a post-Nasser period which attaches greater importance to Egypt's national problems and less to Pan-Arabism. In this respect Rogers was reminded that Jerusalem had disagreed with Washington's forecast that Nasser's disappearance would produce chaos.

THE BASIC ARGUMENT between Jerusalem and Washington is now over timing. Even so Israel concedes that the chances of peaceful settlement have augmented during the past year. There is no longer a fear that the future of the Middle East would lie in the hands of its most radical elements, the Maoist-inclined guerrillas. Israel talks of withdrawal in an interim settlement while Egypt talks of ultimate peace.

Israel believes both Rogers and Sadat, for personal political reasons, want a swift

C. L. Sulzberger

NEW YORK TIMES NEWS SERVICE

interim settlement and Israel furthermore accepts that the United States cannot really give a valid and operable guarantee of any such settlement. Its enforcement must rest in the hands of the United Nations Security Council, which always runs for cover when there is serious fighting.

But Israel doesn't complain that the United States has let it down during the past year of secret discussions. It acknowledges that it has received more ordnance help to maintain its end of the Middle East power balance than in any previous year and that Washington has stuck by it in the United Nations.

The most serious complaint is that Washington has formally come out for a detailed settlement that undercuts Israel's bargaining position in prospective negotiations. Even Western European statesmen argue that if the United States, Israel's arms purveyor, endorses the presently announced basis for settlement, that settlement must obviously be favorable for Israel.

The living dead

EDITOR:

I would like to know under what authority a physician and an intern can go to an ambulance on hospital grounds and declare a person dead before the person is even brought into the hospital.

If her "private physician" authorized this over the phone, as is done in too many cases, then he should be called on the carpet by the proper medical authorities of the state.

If her "private physician" did not authorize the declaration of death, then this was a case for the county coroner. There are laws and regulations which forbid a doctor to sign a death certificate unless he has been treating the patient for a certain number of days.

The mortuary attendant said: "This has happened before in the mortuary business."

There should be a law that would make it unlawful for a doctor to authorize the cause of death without ever seeing the deceased.

I hope the county coroner will call for a complete investigation into this case. The state medical authorities should also demand an investigation. Governor Reagan is duly bound to step into this case.

The living waters

EDITOR:

I realize it is impossible for you to cover every event in our city. However, I was disappointed to find no coverage of the Everlastin' Living Waters Rock festival at Municipal Auditorium. A rock concert a few days previously at the arena earned front page news due to the rock-throwing antics of turned away fans.

The ELWR festival couldn't have been more different. It's purpose? The glorification of Jesus Christ. Messages in song were given by Country Faith, Blessed Hope, Debbie, Children of the Day, and The Way. Finally, we heard the excellent talent of Love Song mixed with a message by Calvary Chapel minister Lonnie Frisbee. An altar call was given, and the response by hundreds of young people and parents was so large people had to be moved off the stage to make room for more. Praise the Lord!

The 'big stinker'

EDITOR:

I am referring to a California Teachers Assn. commercial I viewed on television, about the "little stinker" becoming a "big stinker." It leaves one with the impression that children know more than their parents and adults are fools. Neither the child nor the adult evinces respect for one another. Here, you are widening the generation gap.

My husband and I are both educated; he an attorney and I a registered nurse. Many facts had to be learned before we could pursue our professions, yet, we can still use reason and logic to solve problems.

I think you are making a grave mistake when you try to "sell" education this way. I for one, can not buy it.

Contraceptive taboo

EDITOR:

Thank you for printing the medical science article May 7. I sincerely wish that when I was in high school such subjects as contraceptives were not looked upon as taboo. High school girls are young women and definitely need to be educated in this area. Please continue to inform your readers of the importance of incorporating in the high schools classes which will inform students of birth control.

Today's books at a glance

RECONSTRUCTION: The Great Experiment. By Allen W. Trelease. Harper and Row, $4.95.

A first-rate analysis of the crucial period from the close of the Civil War to the disputed Hayes-Tilden presidential election in 1876 which brought Reconstruction to an end. We see the Freedmen's Bureau in action to aid the former slaves; the clash of the Radical Republicans and Abolitionists with the aristocracy of the South; the impeachment proceedings against Andrew Johnson, and the beginnings of a new slavery — the sharecropping system — for the Negroes. An excellent book for both young and adult readers. —H.

DREAMS IN FOLKLORE. By Sigmund Freud and D. E. Oppenheim. International Universities Press, $3.

A little known but important work by Freud, in collaboration with a student of mythology, in which Freud states that a number of the dreams in folklore "are understood by the common people in the same way as they would be interpreted by psychoanalysis — that is, not as premonitions about a still unrevealed future, but as the fulfillment of wishes, the satisfaction of needs which arise during the state of sleep." —N.

THE SECRET CONFERENCES OF DR. GOEBBELS. Selected and edited by Willi A. Boelcke. Dutton, $12.50.

Joseph Goebbels was the trickiest and most consummate propagandist of modern times. He was the master of the Big Lie. These records, inaccessible for years in East Germany, are the minutes of Goebbels' ministry of information, from the start of World War II until its turning point against the Nazis, and consist mainly of Goebbels' own words. They show him preparing falsehoods, forgeries, genocide propaganda and the rest of the evil technique. —N.

HISTORY AS SOCIAL SCIENCE. Edited by David S. Landes and Charles Tilly. Prentice-Hall, $5.95.

The findings of a survey of 600 historians, under the aegis of the National Academy of Sciences, on the role of social science statistics and computer techniques in the field of history. Applying social science to history, the survey concludes, "will make history richer, more exciting, more valuable, more relevant to contemporary concerns and problems." A provocative book. —N.

Enemy now fighting closer to home

(ED. NOTE: There are two sides to everything, including how a war — specifically the Vietnam War — should be reported. In this dispatch, a top U.S. military analyst discusses the subject from a Pentagon viewpoint. Colonel Moore has served as a planner for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the commander-in-chief, Pacific, and the commander, Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe (SHAPE). He is presently vice commander at Headquarters Command, USAF, Bolling Air Force Base in Washington.)

By WILLIAM C. MOORE
Colonel, USAF

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The war in Indochina has been reported to the American public in greater detail than any war in history. Despite this wide and detailed coverage considerable confusion exists because columnists, TV commentators, and government spokesmen are widely divided in their assessments of military operations.

During the Tet offensive of 1968 they were divided. During the Cambodian operation in 1970 they were divided. During the South Vietnamese operation into Laos they were divided.

The division is not a clearcut split between government spokesmen on one side and the press on the other. Reporters themselves are divided. TV commentators are divided. Politicians are divided.

This disparity in assessing military operations confuses laymen. It leaves them perplexed as to who won, who lost, and which side is now in the more favorable military position.

The question that arises is this: Is the military profession so imprecise a science as to permit such diametrically opposed assessments? If not, why, for instance, do reporters, all professionally dedicated to factual objectivity, see things so differently?

PERHAPS SOME of the confusion can be clarified by applying criteria peculiar to military tacticians — the military theories involved, the techniques, the axioms that govern the military profession.

First it is necessary to recall two often quoted military dichotomies: "He won the battle but lost the war" or the converse: "He lost the battle but won the war."

To military tacticians these dichotomies mean one thing: Battles have tactical implications and strategic implications. Of the two, strategic implications are far more significant in assessing the value of an operation such as Tet in 1968 or Lam Son 719 in 1971.

History is replete with battles in which one side suffered a tactical defeat but gained a strategic victory. History is also replete with battles which were successful tactically, but disastrous strategically. A few examples, all well known to military buffs:

— At the Battle of Kerstown during the Civil War, Gen. Stonewall Jackson suffered a serious tactical defeat while attacking Union forces. Nevertheless, President Lincoln's reaction to Jackson's attack resulted in maldeployment of Union forces. The maldeployments had favorable strategic implications for General Lee and the South.

— At the Battle of Sharpsburg (Antietam) during General Lee's first invasion of the North, he gained a tactical victory by successfully defending his position against fierce Union attacks. Nevertheless, Lee's tactical victory turned into strategic defeat because shortly after the battle he aborted his invasion of the North.

— During the Shenandoah Valley campaign, General Jackson experienced both tactical victory by capturing Harpers Ferry, and shortly thereafter, tactical defeat when he was forced to retreat pellmell up the valley with Union troops in hot pursuit. On balance, tacticians give Jackson a tactical victory even though he did retreat. The big plus was strategic — the valley campaign was a complete success. Again, the reaction in Washington resulted in maldeployment of Union forces. Tactically, the scenario in the valley campaign compares with Lam Son 719 — attack, partial success, quick withdrawal, and mixed evaluations.

THE MOST FAMOUS dichotomy occurred when King Pyrrhus of Epirus suffered dreadful losses but nevertheless gained a strategic victory over Roman legions. After the battle the king said: "Another such victory and I am lost."

These examples illustrate that battles involve retreats, withdrawals, and tactical statistics — dead, wounded, supplies captured, and the like. But these tactical considerations are not crucial to assessing the value of military operations. Winners in the tactical sense are often losers in the strategic sense.

Despite this military truism, many columnists, TV commentators and politicians, using little more than tactical data, were quick to accredit the North Vietnamese with great strategic victories during Tet in 1968, during the Cambodian operations in 1970, and during the incursion into Laos in 1971.

The criteria of the military profession do not support these quick assessments. On the contrary, military history warns the professional tactician never to make strategic conclusions on the basis of tactical victory or defeat — strategic assessments can, and often do, vary widely with tactical assessments.

War is a fluid situation in which tactical fortunes ebb and flow, sometimes to great extremes. Often the tactical implications for either side are not apparent except in an overwhelming, unmistakable victory. Strategic fortunes, on the other hand, result from a steady accumulation of pluses, involving initiative, morale, geographical progress and relative strength in resources.

THE DICHOTOMY between tactics and strategy, therefore, is partial explanation for the divided assessments about military operations in Indochina. Critics have generally focused their attention on tactics. The military professional has looked more closely at the strategic implications. Strategically, the Allies have had the best of it by far.

To fully comprehend why, look at the record as the political leaders in Hanoi must see it. Their military commander, General Giap, has proclaimed military victory many, many times — at Hue during Tet, at the siege of Khe Sanh, at the Chu Pong plantation in Cambodia, at Tchepone during the Laotian operations against the Ho Chi Minh Trail, at the siege of Fire Base 6, and at other places.

Hanoi's political leaders have gone along with echoing Giap's trumpet. They need the psychological victories as much as he does.

BUT THE POLITICAL leaders, all hawks undoubtedly, have some searching questions to ask General Giap. "How come we are now fighting so close to home?" they will ask. "How come we are fighting in our own backyard, over our vital supply lines, in areas that are vital to us? How come the South Vietnamese are able to plan and execute an operation (Lam Son 719) of such initiative and daring? How come so many of our soldiers are being sacrificed? How come this has happened while U.S. fighting strength has been reduced in South Vietnam from over 500,000 men to less than 300,000?"

General Giap will be hard pressed to find satisfactory answers. In 1967, his troops were fighting in and around Saigon. Recently they fought hard to retake Tchepone, Laos, which is 400 miles north of Saigon — 400 miles closer to Hanoi. The leaders of Hanoi no doubt realize the full strategic significance of this geographical retrogression. The progress of the Allies since 1967 in reducing the threat to Saigon and indeed the whole of South Vietnam is readily apparent to them. They are far worse off, tactically and strategically, than in 1967. Moreover, they are worse off than in October 1970 when Mr. Nixon made his offer of a "stand-still cease fire." On balance Hanoi's rejection of President Nixon's offer must be considered a bad miscalculation.

General Giap will continue to blow the bugle of tactical victory, and he will find those in the U.S. who will march to his drum beat. Nevertheless, his political leaders — and his sympathizers in the United States — would be wise to warn him: "Another such victory and we are lost."

My fiscal year was a messy one

WELL, I'M BACK. Actually, I never went far. I decided to vacation in Southern California this year because everybody else in the country seems to. I went to Sea World in San Diego I went to Disneyland, I visited Avalon, and I cleaned off the top of my desk.

That was the reason for the vacation. I had promised the secretary, Alma Levers, (or "yes Ma'am," as call her respectfully) that I would clean off all the stuff on the desk-top before the city stepped in and declared it an Urban Renewal recreation project, complete with kiddie-rides and a lunch-counter.

I clean off my desk once a year, whether Alma tells me to or not. I found some interesting correspondence down near the bottom of the pile, postmarked in late June and early July of 1970. I'd like to thank Kenneth Associates of Los Angeles, whoever they are, for the 27-color pencil they sent me. I suppose it's too late now to take them up on their offer of a second one for, as the letter said, "your spouse, child, boss or paramour in a plain, unmarked wrapper."

Well, for a paramour, I think that's the best kind of wrapper.

I want to apologize to the Long Beach Better Business Bureau for missing their Christmas party last Dec. 18, but I just came across the invitation. I don't suppose they have any cocktails scheduled for July 4. No, I suppose not. This year, I'll keep better track of the holiday mail.

I FIND an interesting bill for $1.80 from a Francois Manhattan on Fourth St. There is a note attached which says, "There must be a reason you have ignored this billing for several months — would you please advise?"

Well, I sure will advise. The reason is quite plain, although terribly embarrassing. I wonder what I drank last summer that cost a buck-eighty? I hope it was three of something. Well, I'll get right down there tomorrow and say, "Another one of the same, bartender, and have one yourself," and get thrown out.

Just behind the pile, I discover a daily calendar with the page turned to March 19 of this year. There are no notes on the previous pages, so I must assume that is the date when Alma discovered the calendar, took the 1970 pages off and put the new one on. I have turned the pages up to May 4, which seems current enough for me.

I find a 70-page booklet written by Nephi Cottam, a chiropractor, who tells me that "all kinds of illness may be helped by adjusting the bones of the head, by hand." I'm glad I found that one. It becomes clearer all the time that I need my headbones adjusted. I will read the book sometime before my next vacation. In the meantime, I want to send for a book by his brother, Calvin Cottam, entitled, "How to Write True to Yourself So You Sell." That seems an awkward title for a book about successful writing, but it might be just the thing for a guy like me with a maladjusted cranial structure. On second thought, I might pass it up because I just noticed the title of Cal's other book: "The Psychic Dangers of Shaking Hands and How to Protect Yourself." That's one to be kept at the bottom of the pile.

HERE'S AN ITEM of passing interest in a Department of Motor Vehicles booklet, sent to me from State Sen. Joe Kennick's office: Did you know that there are 51 different types of vehicle license plates issued in California? And not one of them seems to have anything to do with Auto-ettes? I think I'll start this year's desk pile with that one.

In the meantime, I have filled two large wastebaskets with unusable or obsolete material and one large shopping bag with semi-usable and current material. Keep those cards and letters coming, friends, but just a few at a time, please.

Columnists on the opinion pages are chosen to represent diverse viewpoints and do not necessarily reflect the editorial position of this newspaper.

Nitroglycerin tablets, used in the treatment of a certain form of heart disease, may lose their potency if not packaged properly, according to the Journal of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

Researchers tested the tablets in the following types of dispensing containers:

- Amber glass vial with screw cap.
- Clear glass vial with polypropylene snap cap.
- Polystyrene vial with polypropylene snap cap.
- Polystyrene vial with polypropylene interlocking cap.
- Clear glass with polyethylene push-in cap.
- Plastic pillbox.
- Strip package.

Findings: Stored at room temperature, potency of the nitroglycerin tablets decreased progressively in all containers except the first two glass ones.

When containers were stored at a higher temperature, tablet potency decreased more rapidly — except for those kept in glass vials. In these the tablets maintained adequate strength up to two months.

Deterioration was most rapid and dramatic in the strip-packaged tablets.

An editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association, commenting on the report, urges that pharmacists dispense the tablets as follows: Use glass vials with either a Bakelite screw cap or a polypropylene snap cap.

Patients are advised: Don't transfer your nitroglycerin tablets to pillboxes.

Nitroglycerin tablets are used to prevent or relieve the pain of angina pectoris (chest pain associated with coronary heart disease).

THE RISK OF pregnancy after the age of 50 has been said to be about the same as that of being struck by lightning.

A report in the journal Obstetrics and Gynecology says that up to 1965, only 25 pregnancies after the age of 50 had been reported in the medical literature.

PROPOSED NEW development in surgery, expected to be ready in five years: miniature artificial hands.

The devices, 10 times smaller than human hands, are designed to pick up and use different surgical instruments. They will be controlled by a surgeon outside the operating theater. The surgeon will manipulate the devices by placing his own hands in various pairs of control gloves. He will be guided by a TV screen showing a magnified view of the operative field.

The artificial hands will make possible more delicate surgery.

Young folks look close while elders look far

Each age of life has its own angle of vision, and few persons possess a panoramic view at any given time. When we are young, we are psychologically short-sighted; as we become older, we get long-sighted.

What I mean by this is that older persons tend less to see what is in front of them than what is at a further distance; while younger persons tend to see only what is directly in front of them.

Older people look into the distant past, which is in better focus for them than the immediate scene, which is blurred and confusing, for it is too close-up to accommodate their angle of vision. This accounts for their impatience and incomprehension with today's activities.

YOUNGER PEOPLE, on the other hand, never look back and rarely look forward more than a year or two; only what is right before them seems "real," and both past and future seem insubstantial. And thus, their impatience and incomprehension with the "lessons of history" and the "dangers of the future."

Our range of vision changes, imperceptibly but steadily, as we get older. Intellectually, we turn from myopic to presbyopic, and so each coming generation has the task of reminding its elders of what stands before us NOW, not when we were children and walked three miles to school in the snow.

If the mind does not grow as the eye changes, then we become fixated in the past and judge the present by standards that are inappropriate or unrealistic. We imagine that our past formulas for coping with life are immutable laws of eternity and we transform what were relative guides into absolute norms. This infuriates young people.

WHILE IT IS DOUBTLESS our job to remain open to the present, the fault is not entirely on one side.

STRICTLY PERSONAL

Sydney Harris

Young people must learn to enlarge their own angle of vision so that the present falls into a proper perspective between past and future, and so that their desperate sense of "immediacy" does not degenerate into barbarism and witless sensuality.

When I was young I was very good at discerning the falseness in ideas and institutions and people; all intelligent youngsters are natural critics; they are excellent at spotting phonies, false arguments, self-serving ideas. This negative function is useful and as astringent for the social order, and must not be repressed or rejected.

As I got older, I began to see the other side of the fabric: the truth and goodness and vitality in people and ideas and institutions, despite their flaws and failings. Somehow, these two views must be joined together to obtain an accurate portrait of the human society, so that we can develop a process to encourage the positive elements and discourage the negative. No one yet is doing this.

Boy's Bar Mitzvah on windy Surfside beach

inal service for young Trachtenberg, 13, was composed by Rabbi Bernard Goldsmith of Temple Beth David of Los Alamitos. Rabbi Kaelter of Temple Israel said Sunday's ritual probably was the first to be held in such an outside setting in Southern California.

Cerritos fans dig Feliciano

Jose is Feliciano-liano-clano-ano-ooo. He sounds the same no matter what song he's singing. He can even make a Credece Clearwater song sound like Feliciano. Appearing in concert Saturday at Cerritos College, the 28-year-old, blind singer-guitarist was well-received by more than 1,500 fans.

Feliciano never gets into any "heavy" music, his selections are more for "easy-listening." He could stand an audience on its head by unleashing his full talent, but, like so many other performers today, contents himself (and his fans) by taking the easy way out.

HIS SLICK, uninvolved presentations of other people's applause-getters would go well on any Muzak-tape or an eighty-eight cent studio-production album of top-40 hits. But he is "Feliciano" so he spices his repertoire with a few "biggies" of his own (Sounding just like his records).

The concert format itself has remained a convenient re-play from one season to another. Feliciano isn't alone either. It seems a phenomenon of a decadent, easy-dollar, music-industry and a public which accepts, as the enth-degree, anything on wax or celluloid recorded by name artists and marketed on a popular label.

With Feliciano it's not so much a matter of "cheating" either. A first-time audience can be assured of getting its money's worth in a tightly-packaged, enjoyable show which, wisely, never exceeds a two-hour set.

HE'S A competent musician an dconsistent enough to repeat to a "T," his originally innovative, though echoic stylings of popular songs which constitute his format.

He did as good a job on "Zorba the Greek" as I'd heard him do the last time. It borders on flamenco (toned-down for pop-music) as he uses his nimble fingers for smooth, melodic-trains.

"Sunday Drive" and "Oye Como Va," which I'd never heard him sing before, were included in the set with the usual standards.

Vocally, he makes impressive use of melisma—stretching one syllable over many notes but with a voice that seems to cry out for a complement of back-up singers (which could be just the problem).

Helping amputee Carson mayor to lead hike

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

Carson Mayor John H. Leahy has put a price on his feet in the name of charity.

Leahy says he'll lead a 10-mile walk-a-thon Saturday to raise funds to send double-amputee Becky White, 19, to the national Wheelchair Olympics.

"I've set a rate of $2.50 per mile on myself with a maximum of four miles for any one sponsor," Leahy said.

UP TO 400 teenagers and adults are expected to join in the walk-a-thon with sponsors paying a minimum of 25 cents per mile for individuals they back.

All funds raised will be turned over to Miss White, who lives in Carson, to pay her travel expenses and purchase a special $600 wheelchair needed to compete in the national eliminations of the worldwide Wheelchair Olympics for handicapped persons.

An earlier story in the Independent, Press-Telegram told of Miss White's having set three state records at the California eliminations in Palo Alto, qualifying her for the national competition in New York.

BUT, BECAUSE of the handicap, she couldn't get a job to raise money for the trip.

Mary Lou Cavanaugh, teen supervisor for the Carson Parks and Recreation Department, took over the task of organizing the walk-a-thon. Then, Becky received three job offers, and she's set to begin working in July for the U.S. Bureau of Customs on Terminal Island.

The walk will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at Watson-center Road and Avalon Boulevard. Participants will be issued control cards which will be punched each mile along the route to assure sponsors that the distance is actually covered.

Rest stations will be set up, with free cold drinks and entertainment by folk singers at Scott, Carson, Cicoria and Del Amo parks.

Miss White will be waiting at Del Amo Park to greet the walkers when they arrive for their final rest stop.

Admitting to being "rotund," Leahy said he was sure he could cover the entire route — providing he had time before a special council budget meeting scheduled for 1 p.m.

Persons interested in participating in the walk or in sponsoring someone else may contact Miss Cavanaugh at the Carson City Hall, 21919 Avalon Blvd.

IN OTHER TOPICS at his press conference — his first since taking office — Lahe ysaid a two-man council committee is continuing its study of the requested rate increase for Carson Refuse Company's residential contract.

Of interest to other teen-age job-seekers, Mayor Leahy announced that the city has received approval to hire up to 50 poverty-level teen-agers for summer jobs with federal funds provided through the National Youth Corps. However, the funds have not yet been provided by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Last year 23 youngsters were employed as maintenance, recreation and clerical aides by various city departments. In fact, some of the youth have since been hired as parttime city workers and at least one was hired as a fulltime clerk-typist, he said.

Solons set county hearing on delay of new hospital

The Assembly Committee on Health will convene in Santa Ana Thursday and Friday to check on the county's hospital planning activities.

It scheduled the meeting through its chairman, Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, in response to a request by Assemblyman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, after a series of events involving the proposed Saddleback Community Hospital.

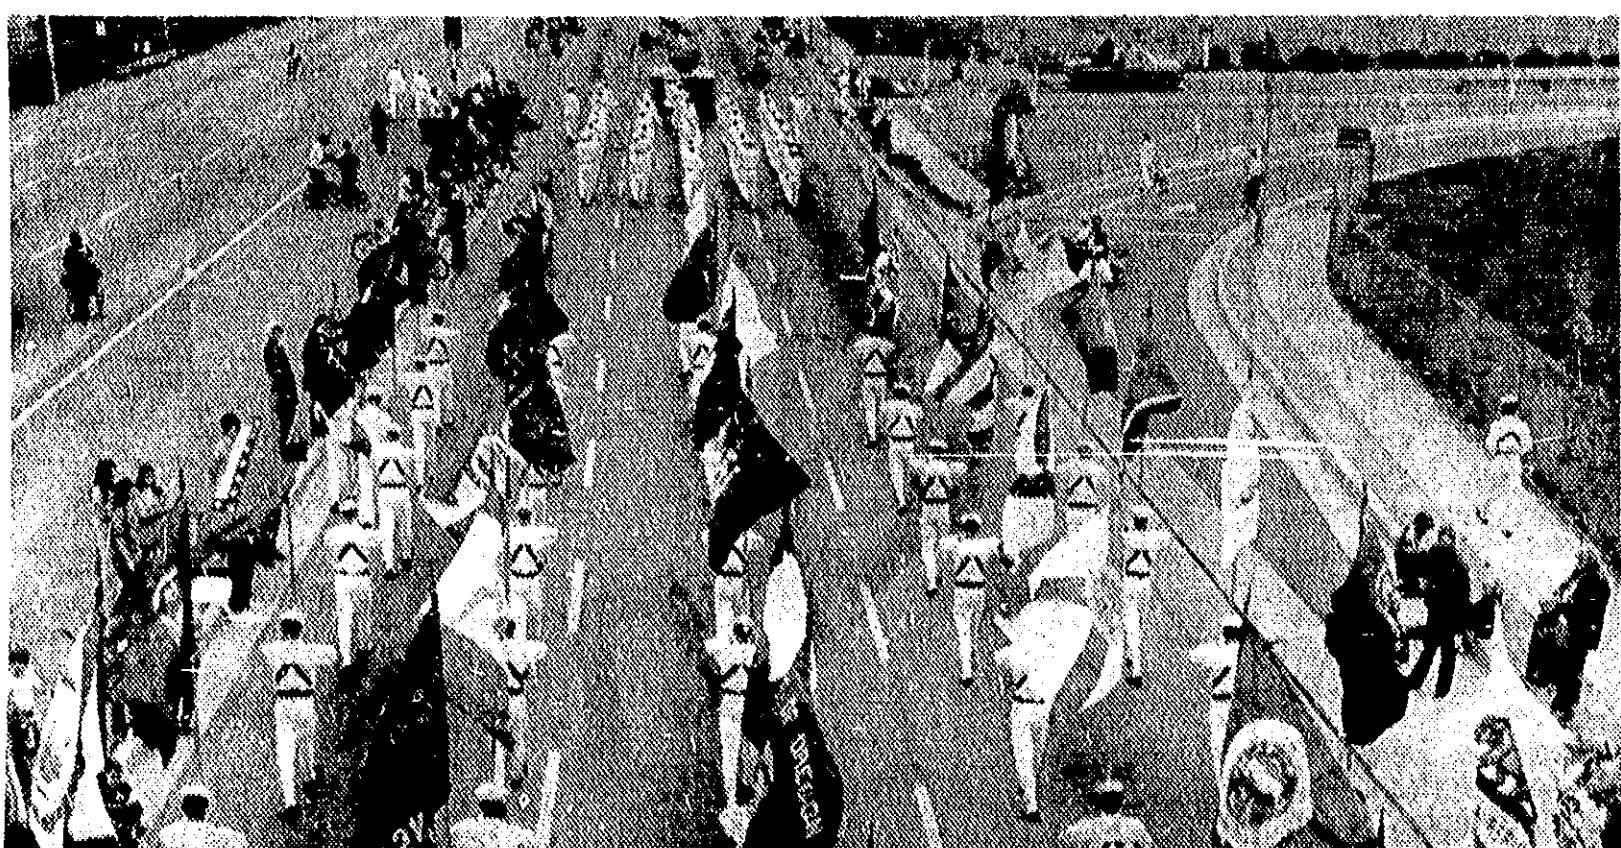

The Orange County Planning Commission had delayed three times the Saddleback application for a conditional use permit, necessary before a building permit could be issued, which in turn was to be a part of its application for $1.4 million in federal funds.

The delays were forced by a bloc composed of the commission chairman, Woodrow W. Butterfield of Garden Grove, and Fred Jefferson of Anaheim and Arnold Forde of Costa Mesa.

Forde then went to Europe — and it was revealed he had a financial interest in Mission Community Hospital at Mission Viejo, near the Laguna Hills Leisure World location of the proposed Saddleback hospital.

Forde withdrew his opposition. So did Butterfield and Jefferson, after they had left a planning commission meeting during a recess.

Assemblyman Campbell said the two-day hearing also will hear about activities of the recently reorganized Orange County Health Planning Council.

Banners of all 50 states were carried in Garden Grove's 14th annual Strawberry Festival by drill team from U.S. Naval Station, San Diego. About 50,000 persons viewed the 200-unit parade.

3-part harmony

Contemporary rhythm in auditorium

By PRESTON REESE
Rock-Music Critic

If it weren't for the fact it had been so much fun, this weekend's rock concert at Long Beach Auditorium could've been academic — a case study of contemporary music entitled "Evolution: In Three-Part Harmony."

Featured performers on the program Friday (in order of appearance rather than box office successes) were: Corroborée, Turnquist Remedy and Pacific Gas and Electric.

Academically, there could've been no "headlining" group. The biweekly program presented three bands, fortunately all competent acts and headliners in their own right, who shared a basically common musical style.

However, each group represented a particular stage of development in their idiom.

Pacific Gas and Electric would come under the headlining category. Turnquist Remedy follows as the "up and coming" act, and Corroborée (probably no less capable of achieving PG and E heights) is the most recently formed and most under-exposed band.

Corroborée members, the youngest on the program, are still in school. From La Mirada, the group includes: Ton De Rivera, lead singer and bass guitarist; Brad Zapper, second lead voice and guitarist; Rik Shannon, percussionist and harmonica, and Randy Chambers, keyboards.

The group seems to be in the process of developing its own tight, personalized style at this point. I think they'll get there right on time. The sound they're producing now, nothing short of wallop-packing energy, should more than satisfy audiences at their string of concert bookings and recording dates over the next few months as part of the initial introduction to the public.

Turnquist Remedy came on with good, rowdy rock music just in time and got people out of any overly objective, "hipper than thou" frames of mind.

The four Turnquist men, ex-residents of Long Beach, have an album due for release in November titled "Iowa by the Sea." The record features incredible versatility of style in which the group adopts a country-western flavor in place of their usual hard-rock. They pull off both styles well. It's almost an assault to the senses to hear them turn from live rock concert fare to a country tune about the LBPD.

The group can grasp an audience (even in an empty-seated auditorium) pretty much the same way as the Grateful Dead could hover over a breathing-room only crowd during good, old days at the Shrine.

Tape deck taken

Tommy Lucy, of South Gate, told police Sunday that while his car was parked in a lot near the Long Beach Arena, thieves broke into the vehicle and removed a tape deck, tapes and clothing valued totally at $659.

Turnquist's Scott Harder, bass guitar; Michael Woods, on rhythm guitar and keyboards, and Murphy Scarnecchi, lead guitarist, have added drummer Phil Jones, who seems to be what the group needed to round out its previously "loose" sound. It could've been that the band has finally gotten around to some decent production work.

A long intermission cleared the air for PG and E, which made things sound like a rock concert again.

PG and E's full, rich, big-band sound is colored with heavy strains of blues and rock. Not as heavily rocked as say, Chicago (though far more so than Watts 103rd), or as bluesy as Blood, Sweat and Tears. The vehicle may be the same but the band does its own, goodtime thing.

Lead vocalist Charlie Allen, has all the charm of Hugh Masekela, though a more powerful, soulful drive. The sound is completed by a strong, three-member brass section; a percussion section (one conga and two snare sets) picked from Bayou country; organist and lead and bass guitarists who can work up interplay mindful of Mountain's Leslie West and Felix Papalardi

(though not as stated). The group performed only five songs or so before it attempted to close the show with "Are You Ready," which only brought demands for "more," answered with an encore, "Wade in the Water."

Unlike some groups, the band doesn't cheat with loud, elementary openers and save the heavier work for last.

New law changes

Another SS benefit boost seen

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Either this year or perhaps early in 1972, Congress seems likely to pile more Social Security changes onto the major benefit increases it approved this spring.

These coming changes could well include still another boost in benefits, in the range of maybe five to 10 per cent.

Since World War II there have been eight benefit increases, the last two, taking effect in 1970 and 1971, have totaled 25 per cent—including the 10 per cent hike just voted.

Government administrators and Congress obviously are struggling to keep Social Security benefits moving upward to match the constantly rising cost of living.

Beyond the prospect of a ninth increase in benefits, these other Social Security changes may be coming along in the months ahead:

A widow's benefit may be boosted so that she will get 100 per cent of what her husband would have received in retirement benefits if properly qualified at age 65. Under present law, the most she can get is 82½ per cent of her husband's benefit.

There may be an increase in the amount of money a worker may earn yearly after he retires, without some loss of benefits. Right now a retired worker drawing benefits can earn no more than $1,680 a year without taking a loss. After that, for every $2 he earns between $1,680 and $2,880 a year, he must give up $1 in benefits.

The chance is good that the basic "retirement test" figure will be increased from $1,680 to $2,000, and that a retired worker also may be able—after coming changes—to earn more than $2,880 a year before suffering a dollar for dollar loss in benefits.

The U.S. Senate this year voted to increase the base figure to $2,400, but the house refused to accept it and put the matter off.

Under the present law, in figuring up average yearly earnings on which retirement benefits are based, a retiring worker may drop from his calculations his five lowest earning years. This may be changed to allow him to drop three more low years from his total earnings record under Social Security.

This, of course, will tend to boost his earnings average for Social Security purposes, and it is estimated this change alone may add another $1 billion a year in benefits for male workers.

Certain to be included in another round of Social Security revisions will be some modifications of the law pertaining to Medicare—which provides hospital insurance under basic Social Security and extra medical insurance, including substantial coverage of doctor bills. For those who pay monthly premiums of $5.30 ($5.60 starting in July).

More than 30 Medicare changes are in prospect, but most would affect the elderly beneficiaries only indirectly. They are aimed at more effective control of the spiraling costs involved in hospital, doctor bill and other medical expense.

Nader denies he's spread too thinly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Nader, declaring that most consumer problems are related, defended himself Sunday against critics who say he has "spread himself too thin" by taking on an excessive range of such problems.

Nader conceded his studies of consumer matters had broadened considerably since he began his consumer advocacy with criticism of the automobile industry.

But he argued that "it's important that people understand that problems are interrelated" and that his ever-spreading field of investigation was justified on that ground.

Nader was interviewed on television, NBC's Meet the Press.

He also: —Said some industries were building "cleaner plants" rather than risk government-enforced modifications in the future, but was unable to name a single praiseworthy incident in which an industry had contributed to anti-pollution practices.

Tunney urges U.S. aim more cash at city crime

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — Municipal governments must get more money from federal tax revenues if they are to have the first rate police forces needed to control crime, said Sen. John V. Tunney Sunday.

"Crime — particularly among the young — is a grim blitzkreig that is cutting through our nation, the California Democrat said.

"Our local policemen and sheriff deputies are in the embattled front lines. They need help, and the most useful reinforcements they could get would be dollars to go along with local revenues for hiring training and adequately paying our lawmen."

Speaking at commencement exercises of Loma Linda University, Tunney said today's lawmen need good training, leadership and discipline to prevent "quick-trigger overreaction" in touchy situations.

He favors direct grants of federal money to law enforcement agencies so they can intensify instruction and incentives, he said.

"PRESENTLY, the federal government spends about $1.5 billion to fight crime — less than one tenth of what it will spend this year to fight in the villages and rice fields of Vietnam.

"This is a dreadful distortion of our priorities, for it seems clear to me that violence in our cities is a far greater threat to our national interest than civil conflict half a world away," he said.

Revenue sharing, with the federal government sharing its tax income with the cities, must be carried out, he said.

"Only in this way can cities liberate themselves

Berkeley students prepared to back public law firm

BERKELEY — Students on UC Berkeley campus have voted overwhelmingly to spend an extra $1.50 a quarter to finance a nonprofit public interest law firm.

Results of student elections held May 28-29 were announced Sunday and the referendum was supported by 70.82 per cent of those voting and opposed by 29.18 per cent.

The final hurdle to launching the firm, which would be called Citizens-Action Law Advocates or CAL Advocates, is approval by the university regents.

CAL Advocates plans to hire five to seven full-time lawyers, who would be paid $10,500 to $12,500, to take cases to protect consumers and the environment.

"WE HAVE every reason to think the regents will be very happy with what we've done. We've shown that students are willing to work within the system," said Ray Bourhis, 28, a law student who conceived the idea of the firm.

"It's a nontax supported, nonprofit organization set up by the students for the public." He said he hopes a voluntary fee plan will bring in $100,000.

Only 6,145 of the university's 27,500-member student body voted in the election — 4,352 approving the referendum and 1,793 opposing it. Bourhis said, "It was one of the largest turnouts that they've ever had in a Berkeley student election."

He said the firm plans to bring suit against small and large industrial polluters and to investigate problems of respiratory

Queen Liz sails 'home' to Orient

RIO DE JANEIRO — The old luxury liner Queen Elizabeth, now called Seawise University, arrived in Rio Sunday on its way to Hong Kong where it is to become a floating university.

The ship was docked in Port Everglades, Fla., for about two years before setting a new course on Feb. 10.

The Queen Elizabeth, the largest passenger liner ever built, was sold in April 1968 by Cunard Line of Britain to an American group that intended to convert it into tourist attraction but the venture failed.

In May 1970, the ship was bought by the C.Y. Tung group for $3.5 million. Chapman College of Los Angeles agreed to transform the ship into a floating university.

from the paralyzing burdens of the property tax. Most cities now have reached their taxing limits, and are faced with cutting services."

He said he is conducting a survey of California police chiefs on the possibility of more effective federal assistance.

Tunney also said he was saddened to see some young people act like "fools" in the recent May Day attempt to jam the legislative process in Washington D.C. through massive demonstrations.

"Those who would take to the streets and destroy other people's property are guilty of the worse kind of blindness," he said in a departure from his prepared text.

"I was so sad to see young people who are so idealistic act like fools for those who have no love for our democratic system," he added.

ailments that may result from enzyme detergents.

HE SAID many county departments of weights and measures "have uncovered gross and excessive and continuing violations" in packaging, many involving large supermarkets.

"They almost never cite the offenders and they don't disclose to the public who's doing this and what's going on," Bourhis said. This is another area the firm hopes to get into.

The firm also plans to look into automobile insurance practices and the California Public Utilities Commission.

In the field of advertising, he said, investigators would study the question of whether bulk rate advertising is being subsidized by the American public "whenever they buy a first-class or air mail stamp."

He said they would also investigate advertising involving political or social issues on radio and TV and sex discrimination in TV advertising.

Bourhis said UCLA and San Jose State College and the University of Santa Clara will be holding referenda in the fall on estab-

Don't blame footwear Bunions hit shoeless too

For centuries folks have been cursing ill-fitting footwear as the cause of bunions.

But the real culprit for those aching toolies may have nothing to do with tight-fitting shoes, reports a San Francisco foot doctor.

"There are primitive peoples in the world who have never worn shoes and they still get bunions," said Dr. Joshua Gerbert at the 52nd annual Western Podiatry Congress in Los Angeles.

Shoes aggravate bunions, Gerbert said, but the real causes are inheritance, congenital malformations, muscular instability, and diseases like gout and other forms of arthritis.

THE FEET are a complicated system of levers that have to bear the weight of the rest of the body, said Gerbert, an assistant professor of surgery at the California College of Podiatric Medicine.

"It has been figured that the average person walks between 50,000 and 60,000 miles in a life of normal length," he said, adding it is no wonder the lever like structure in your feet can become "easily disarranged."

"Foot pain is often taken for granted," he said, and suggested checking children's feet when they are school age to save them grief when they get older.

At Mark Taper Forum

New playwrights can test talents

By ROBERT C. WYLDER
Drama Critic

The New Theater for Now of the Center Theater Group at the Mark Taper Forum of the Music Center in Los Angeles (are you still with me?) is a project partly funded by Rockefeller Foundation dollars and wholly devoted to providing an opportunity for new playwrights to try out their wares before a live audience before going back to the old drawing board for a bit of touch-up here and there.

If after the touch-up the product seems worthy enough, it may be seen later as a full-bloom production (at higher prices), as "Rosebloom" has been and "The Trial of the Catons-

Copter rescues
2 on cruiser

RODEO (UPI) — A Coast Guard helicopter Sunday rescued a woman and a baby from a 28-foot cabin cruiser that reported it was "sinking fast" in San Pablo Bay.

Two Coast Guard cutters and a helicopter rushed to a distress call from the Kilt Kat II, located about 200 yards offshore near Rodeo.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the helicopter took a woman and baby aboard the craft to shore and the cruiser was under tow. The operator of the pleasure boat remained aboard.

ville Nine" will be. If it doesn't seem worthy enough it will fade quietly away, leaving the playwright still obscure but presumably wiser. In any case, the New Theater for Now gives new writers a chance to see their work in progress on stage, not just in the mind's eye. It gives them a chance to hear the response of an audience, too.

THAT RESPONSE was lukewarm at best last week at the performance I saw of Lee Kalcheim's "Who Wants to Be 'The Lone Ranger,'" directed by Edward Parone. I rather suspect that it was much the same for the half dozen other performances as well, for the fact is that the play isn't very interesting. Production aside — for the play's the thing at these outings — the vehicle itself has little excitement of any kind, too little humor to sustain it, and no insight whatsoever. Since it also has no emotional power, nothing much is left.

In outline, the plot, or what passes for it, is simplicity itself: a young wife leaves her husband for no stated reason soon after the opening curtain and stays away while her husband remains at home wondering why and recalling incidents from their short life together. Some of the scenes of reminiscence are enacted live; the rest are shown on a screen in appropriately amateurish home movies. (Any theater for NOW must be multimedia.) In between past scenes are just enough present ones to remind us that the husband is still waiting and trying to make do. Finally the husband and wife get together just long enough for her to announce that she wants a given, but by then no one cares anyway.

THE INTERPLAY of past and present could be very enlightening in such a play. The recollection of the past might explain the situation of the present, but in this play they don't. Both are equally vague and somehow static. The people move about but never make sense. The effect is dullness in two dimensions at the same time.

No doubt artists learn as much from their failures as from their successes, maybe more. If so, Mr. Kalcheim should come up with a dandy next time. This one was a great learning experience.

French TV cuts Baez show, drops declaration

Toulon, France, (AP) — American folk singer Joan Baez was cut off a national French television show Sunday when she tried to read a declaration including a statement that France was a Fascist country.

A prerecorded spot was switched into the show on the government owned network as she prepared to read the statement after her first song.

She read it to the audience of about 2,000 without it being transmitted, then left the stage and refused to continue with three more scheduled songs.

Legs back, so are leg men

LONDON — Legs are back (and so are leg men).

Hot pants brought them both back. A gal simply can't get away with the new shorties unless she has fairly attractive legs — although I must say a lot of them try to!

Gents who used to be bosom-men are now forced to become leg-men because there's so much leg exposed. (Not that there isn't a lot of bosom exposed, too.) The girls are starting to take "legsercises" to make their legs prettier and shapelier to attract the glance of those masculine eyes.

It's all very apparent here in London where the birds — the girls — are wearing hot pants that are shorter than those I've seen in New York. Even their miniskirts are shorter than those back home.

AND, of course, this means heavy work in the makeup department, with the use of that "blusher," or rouge, which makes the knees look dimpled and allegedly sexier than when not "blushing."

With summer here, there'll be lots of bare legs and what will that do to the pantyhose look? Goodness, gracious, I'm afraid I'm trying to sound like an expert on it, and I know absolutely nothing about it (although I could study, I suppose).

We used to get rather bogged down in those bosom statistics and I'm afraid we're going to have it again in the legs department.

For example, the neck, knees and calves are supposed to measure the same. (Who decided that, I wonder?)

Back in history, some of the sexy ladies of the court were pretty hippy, looking like overstuffed couches, but they grabbed off the kings and dukes and the earls. Nowadays they'd be considered dumpy dames and would look rather horrifying in hot pants. Yet a lot of them are perfectly nice ladies with much to offer a man. They should just avoid hot pants.

I'M NOT going into all the boring "leg services" they suggest in London. But they all seem to agree that those bicycle movements are great, with or without bicycle.

They also point out that summer is a fine time to walk home instead of taking the bus, subway or a taxi. And what if it is a couple of miles.

Fashion seems to require a lot of work, maybe too much work. I was just thinking of the poor girl who has two suitors.

One's a bosom man, one's a leg man. She's got to be exercising in both areas every day. She must sometimes wonder when she's slimming downstairs and expanding upstairs, whether any guy or any two guys, are worth all that effort. I vote no.

Today's Best Laugh: Every year this time, we are reminded of our favorite poem, which we wrote ourselves after visiting one of the beaches, "Oh, what is so bare, as a dame in June?"

Wish I'd said That: Baseball fans' credo especially aimed at umpires and leading hitters: "Never boo until tomorrow, who you can boo today."

Earl's Pearls: "All work and no play makes jack" — F.P.A., several years ago.

Remembered Quotes: Groucho Marx interviewing a girl from Australia: "How did you get to the United States?" "I flew over by plane." "A girl would be a fool to try it any other way."

"Darling" was defined by Oliver Herford as "the popular form of address used in speaking to a person of the opposite sex whose name you cannot at the moment recall."

... That's earl, brother.

Sinatra to end singing, but not swinging

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Frank Sinatra, in the next to last performance he has scheduled before his retirement, joined a list of other celebrities here in a benefit for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

An audience of 12,000 listened attentively Saturday night as Sinatra sang such favorites as "Old Man River," "Fly Me to the Moon" and "That's Life."

Sinatra told the crowd this apparently is the year for the retirement of "the three great swingers — Ed Sullivan, Lawrence Welk and me. I don't know about the other two, but I don't plan to stop swinging."

FRANK SINATRA
A Lively Future

Elaine Stritch ill, bows out of L.A. opera

Elaine Stritch, the Tony Award-winning star of the musical comedy "Company" — was replaced by her understudy for Sunday night's Civic Light Opera performance at the Ahmanson Theater.

Hal Wiener, spokesman for the Civic Light Opera Association, said Miss Stritch was admitted to California Lutheran Hospital Sunday with a severe case of bronchitis. It wasn't immediately known how long the actress would be sidelined, he said.

Sandra Deel, who understudied Miss Stritch while "Company" played in New York, arrived in Los Angeles Sunday to fill in for the stricken actress.

"Company" opened at the Ahmanson Theater in the Music Center last week and has played to record audiences. The musical comedy is produced by Hal Prince.

It is the first performance Miss Stritch has missed since the show opened in New York more than a year ago, Wiener said.

AT CSLB SORORITIES

Housemothers reflect on responsibilities of job

By DIANNE SMITH
Staff Writer

Bess Gover is an affable, white-haired widow who has 18 "daughters."

The girls reside at the Delta Delta Delta sorority house, where Mrs. Gover is housemother.

She delights in telling how she got started as a housemother four years ago.

"It was over a bridge table. I was playing a slam at the time. One of the Tri-Delt's mothers was opposing me. I thought she was trying to distract me when she asked if anyone was interested in being a housemother."

"After we finished, she gave me the number to call. I finally called and was interviewed by two alums. I went to work the next day."

Mrs. Gover admits the job is different than anything she's ever done. With her husband, she operated a moving and storage business in Kansas for 26 years. After coming to California in 1947, she worked 7½ years at the Navy Exchange and then owned a grocery and delicatessen with her brother for two years.

One of eight housemothers for sororities at California State College, Long Beach, Mrs. Gover is the veteran among four interviewed about their job responsibilities.

ALL SAID It is a new experience.

Mrs. Jean Del Giudice, a friendly brunette who's been at the Alpha Phi House since September, became interested in the job through a friend's cousin who was a house director at Chapman College. "I was looking for something where I might work with young people."

Divorced, she is a former WAVE, has been an occupational therapist, sold insurance and served as head resident director for a preparatory school on Balboa.

Mrs. Eleanor Phelan is completing her second year with Alpha Omicron Pi. Before that she spent 30 years as a professional dancer and instructor. A widow with no children, she came to the job in a quest for "something constructive to do. This sounded like something I'd like to try. It's been a challenge."

Mrs. Margaret McKee is the novice of the group, having been with Delta Zeta since the semester began in February. Divorced with two married daughters and seven grandchildren, she is a retired telephone company supervisor. She found the job through a newspaper ad.

"I enjoy people and have more contact with them than in any job I've had. It's like Grand Central Station," she laughed.

Mrs. McKee is the only one of the housemothers who doubles as cook. All prepare the menus, buy the food, supervise the cooking, tend to household repairs and act as house hostess.

At all the houses, everyone eats the evening meal together during the week. On Monday, all sorority members come to dinner as that's meeting night. This swells the ranks to between 40 and 60, depending upon the active membership.

FOOD IS available for the girls to fix their own breakfast, lunch and weekend meals. Said Mrs. Gover, "I never leave them without food. When I go to church on Sunday, there's usually something fresh out for them." She also keeps a supply of vitamin C, cough syrup and band-aids for emergencies.

While the housemother must be at the house whenever girls are home, she still has time for outside interests.

"I have my privacy and as much time off as I want," explained Mrs. Gover. "I still play bridge three days a week. In fact, I was asked not to give up any of my clubs. The feeling is if you are involved in outside activities, it makes you a better housemother. You don't get too bogged down."

The mother of two boys and grandmother of four, she said she was in shock when first told she would be housemother to girls.

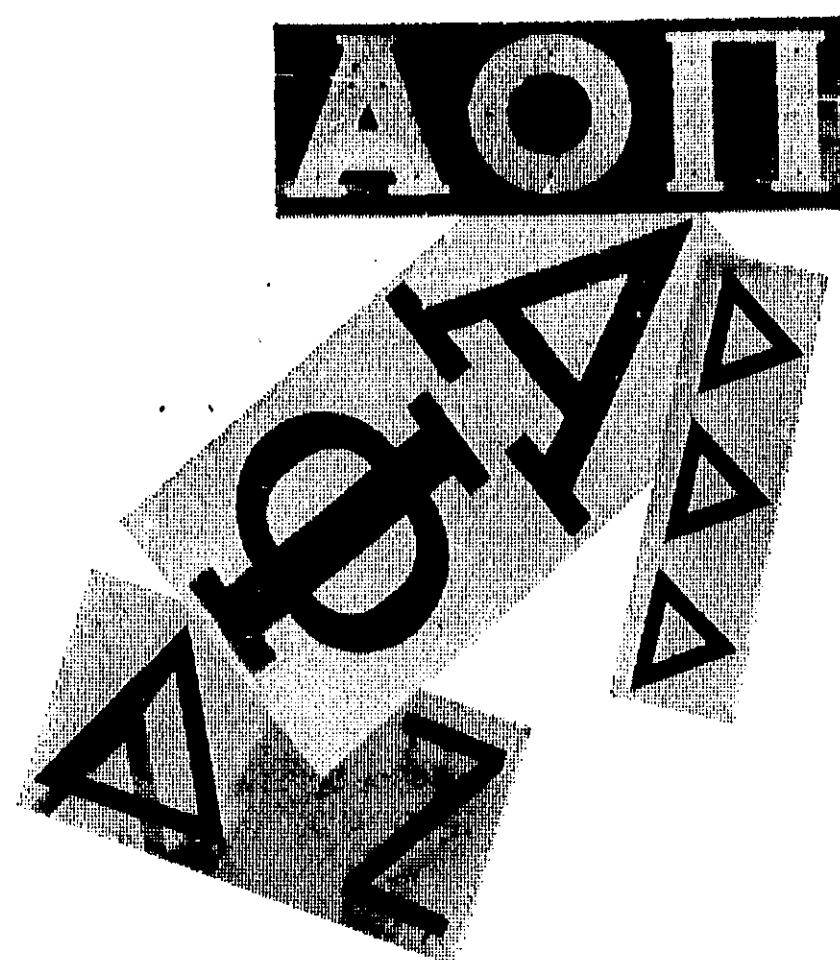

"If they told me it was boys, I would have been delighted. But you know, I wouldn't trade my girls for all the boys in Long Beach."

Then with a shy smile, she added, "I should be ashamed because the SAEs made me a little sister. No housemother has ever been one before. I do feel proud of that."

She has praise for the college generation. "I just wish there was some way to put as much effort on playing up the kind of girls I have and the boys who come to see them instead of the hippie types and so-called generation gap. I think there would be far less commotion in the schools and on the streets."

WHILE HER job is not the best paying in the world, Mrs. Gover said there are other compensations and rewards to make up for it.

With pride, she brings out a box containing homemade cards and thank yous she has received from the girls. "I'm going to make a scrapbook some day. I wish you could see all the things they've given me."

All the women expressed a desire to be more of a big sister or friend to the girls living in the houses. The concept of a housemother has changed with the relaxing of rules and regulations where the girls are free to come and go as they wish. Where she was once expected to be a chaperone, she does little more than housesit today.

Commented Mrs. McKee: "I want a rapport with the girls. But first I have to prove myself. I keep still and try not to be nosey, while being interested in their activities."

Mrs. Del Giudice noted, "the girls enjoy having someone here to talk to. They're free to come in and talk any time. I go out quite a bit. The girls seem to like the fact that I trust them. I want a happy house and no bickering."

MRS. PHELAN added, "the girls confide in me and appreciate that I respect their way of living — which is often spur of the moment. We get along fine. I don't yell at them, but I do make suggestions. I want them to grow to be complete adults, which means accepting responsibility and learning organization."

The housemothers meet once a month on Friday mornings for a mutual exchange of ideas and discussion of problems. Mrs. Del Giudice was organizer for the sessions. "If something hasn't been going right, we can talk about it."

Sometimes, they trade recipes, menu hints or tips on where to buy and what's best to buy.

Pat's Pointers

It's a winner, plain or fancy

By PAT TREXLER

Make it plain or make it fancy . . . either way you'll love this classic, knit-from-the-neck down raglan. For those who like a touch of pattern stitchery, there is a panel of star stitches down either side of the front opening.

To obtain directions, send your request for Leaflet No. MY-30, with 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, Independent, Press-Telegram, P.O. Box 17635, Charlotte, N.C. 28211.

DEAR PAT: I have just learned to make a beautiful, loop-fringe edging which I think your readers would like to know about. It's the perfect finishing touch for afghans, bedspreads and many other items — and so easy to do!

I use needles a couple of sizes larger than those used for the item to be trimmed, and work with a double strand of yarn.

With the double strand of yarn, cast on 13 stitches. Row 1 is worked as fol-

Joyous white

The use of white for wedding gowns is a custom with roots in antiquity when the color denoted joy.

Early Romans wore white at births, feasts and other celebrations. Among the Greeks the white rose was an emblem of joy.

The Patagonians painted white decorations on their bodies on joyous occasions. On the eve of the wedding ceremony they covered their entire bodies with white.

Repeat these two rows until the knitted strip is the same length as the edge to be trimmed, ending with row 2. On the next row, slip the first stitch from the left to the right needle, bind off the next seven stitches.

Fasten off at this point by cutting off the yarn and drawing it through the stitch on the right-hand needle. Drop the remaining five stitches off the left needle and ravel them all the way down to the beginning. This forms the fringe loops.

If you want straight fringe instead of loops, you can cut each loop at the bottom. MARI L., Reading, Massachusetts.

Thank you Mari, for sharing your directions with us. I'm sure my readers will find many uses for this lovely trim.

THE MAN YOU MARRIED

How much should husband help around the house?

Part II of a Series

By GILLIAN FRANKS
Women's News Service

How well do you really know your husband? Has he become so much a part of the fixtures and fittings of the family home that you find it almost impossible to believe that he could do anything which could take you by surprise?

Then there's something that will probably take you by surprise. According to the latest surveys, you see the man in your life only 48 hours a week at the most . . . that is the amount of time he will spare you and the family during the next seven days.

Out of the 168 hours in a week, fewer than 48 are devoted by the average man to the needs of his wife and family. The rest are spent working, traveling, sleeping, and indulging in social activities, most of which remain a mystery to his wife.

Few wives, it seems, rarely take much interest in what a husband does outside the family circle. This was illustrated by a questionnaire on marriage prepared by sociologists at the University of California.

One question was: "If, when out shopping one day, you caught sight of your husband eating in a restaurant with a very attractive woman, what would you do?"

NEARLY 30 PER cent of the wives replied to the effect that the fact that their husband actually knew any attractive women would leave them so thunderstruck that they would be incapable of rational thought!

"If a wife thinks that," says Dr. Shirley Firman, a sociologist, and author of a recent successful book on marriage problems, "she'll believe anything!"

"Men — especially married ones — are, as a race, infinite more secretive and devious than women give them credit for," Dr. Firman says.

"In one study I was concerned with, 240 out of 400 men interviewed claimed they had had some form of extra-marital relationship — often pretty harmless — and in less than ten per cent of the cases did the wife ever learn anything about it."

Studies carried out over the last three years in America and Europe have brought to light a number of disturbing facts about the men in our lives.

Not the least of them is that although women may do more than their share of the nagging and moaning, when it comes to cold calculated thought about a divorce or separation, husbands do far more of it than wives.

Indeed, in one intensive British survey of 1,000 husbands and wives carried out last year, one in ten husbands said they had seriously considered the possibility of separation or divorce. Yet the idea had apparently occurred to only one in every 18 wives.

"I have often thought about leaving her," said one man, married for 14 years, "but I feel that if I left my wife, she would fall apart at the seams. And I'd have it on my conscience for the rest of my life."

"No, my wife doesn't know how I really feel — but then she doesn't really know very much about me."

He seems to have a point there. The average husband, according to sociological and industrial studies, spends the equivalent of five complete days away from the family each week, and few wives seem to realize the enormity of the transformation which occurs once he gets beyond the garden gate.

IN ONE TEST, a group of wives was asked to fill in a questionnaire detailing their husbands' basic characteristics, interests and hobbies? Then his office colleagues were asked to answer the same questions.

The results could hardly have been further apart. One man turned out to be a veritable ogre at home, while his workmates regarded him as retiring to the point of shyness.

Another husband was obsessed by tidiness in his home, while at work no one ever remembered having seen his desk without a litter of papers.

There was even one man who was an inveterate tea-drinker at the office but drank only coffee at home.

Psychologist Brent W. Baker, author of "Modern Marriage," was one of the first people to make a complete study of what he has termed the "masculinity crisis."

This he says is the basic loneliness of the wage-earner in the household — and the main reason why he spends so little time in it. His problems, concerning bills and debts, are either worrisome or boring to his wife. Either way, she doesn't want to hear about them.

"My wife doesn't understand," a husband may claim," says Dr. Baker, "and where his specialized world of work and money management is concerned, he's probably right."

"Most women fulfill their basic needs and ambitions within the framework of the family and find it hard to take much interest in anything else."

"I just wish my wife would participate more in family financial decisions," one oil company executive told me. "I accept that we're equal, so I want her to share responsibility for all domestic matters — even if the house needs a new roof on it."

Another put it more simply, but was probably saying the same thing: "I wish we could talk together about things that interest me rather than always about new slipcovers for the couch, or whether she looks better in a midi or a mini."

THIS LACK OF communication, resulting, as it apparently does, in women not understanding their husbands, would appear to be one reason why men are spending an increasing amount of time out of the home. Today, if a woman doesn't get to know her husband it's probably because her most familiar view of him is as a rapidly retreating figure shouldering a set of golf clubs.

Dr. Ralph Bodoni, of the Southern States Guild of Marriage Counselors, recently estimated that 22 per cent of American housewives under the age of 45 could complain with some justification that they were "hobby widows."

Husbands, he finds, fall into two categories: those who had their hobby before they married and have refused to give it up, and those who have taken up a hobby since marriage.

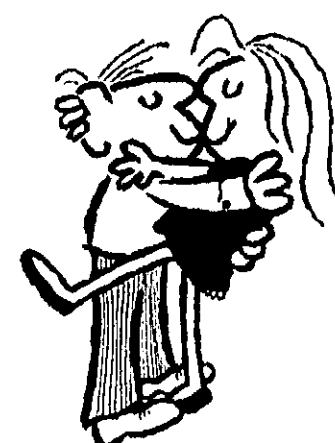

The second category, says Dr. Bodoni, is more disturbing, and the blame for this state of affairs often lies with the wife.

"If a man's married life is as it should be, then he shouldn't have a constant and insatiable desire to go out every night for a couple of beers with the boys," says Dr. Bodoni.

He maintains that if a wife makes a real effort to make herself more interesting and desirable, time spent out of the house in pursuit of the "hobby" should decrease.

If this doesn't work, Dr. Bodoni says, the best thing a woman can do is "to positively encourage her husband to pursue his hobby. The chances are that then he won't feel quite so keen about it!"

Isn't that just like a man!

DEAR ABBY

Forced marriage for baby's sake

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I respected your answers until you gave a put-down to that person who was all for forced marriages.

It doesn't make one bit of difference what kind of husband or father the boy will be. He can be a rotten husband and a lousy father, but at least the children will have a legal name. That is all that is important. It doesn't even matter if he lives with the girl after he marries her. If he's no good, let him clear out.

A boy should be forced by law to give his name to any children he fathers. That's the trouble with the world today, nobody is made to live up to their responsibilities.

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: You are entitled to your point of view, but please read on.

DEAR ABBY: Those who think the best solution to an unmarried girl's pregnancy is to force the guy to marry her might like to hear my story.

When I was 14 years old, I "fell in love" and became pregnant. The boy was 16. Our parents decided it would be best for all concerned if we got married. You can't know the horrible disaster it was. When my baby was three months old I got pregnant again, and my child-husband went home to his mama. There I was, not yet 16, with two babies! I was supposed to get support checks, but none came, so no organization would help me. I couldn't pay my rent or buy food. We nearly starved to death. We lived on mayonnaise and bread for three weeks. Then eviction.

My own parents turned their backs on me so I took my two babies to my husband's parents where at least they would be fed. These "kind" people refused to let me see my children after that. It has been eight years now and I am grateful that my children have a good home even tho I am not allowed to see them.

I am not blaming my parents. At the time they did what they thought was best for me, but I tell other parents: Please don't push two kids into marriage just to give a baby a name. I would have been much better off with one baby and no husband.

DEAR ABBY: One of your readers thought shotgun weddings were the only answer when a girl gets into trouble. Let me tell you my experience as a shotgun bride.

I married because I was pregnant, and my husband really had a gun in his back. Before my fifth anniversary, I had five babies, three of which were in diapers at one time. I had no running water, no toilet facilities, inside or out, and we all lived in three small rooms. I never got to go out with or without my children. Yes, my children have a legal name, but I don't know if you would call them legal or not. You see, their father never paid the doctor's delivery fees. A marriage doesn't mean your husband will support you, or love you, or take care of you.

I'm now separated, not divorced, because he claims he "loves" me and the children and he won't give us up. But he hasn't visited us or paid me any support in two years.

If my unmarried daughter ever gets pregnant I will never insist on a shotgun wedding. What's in a "name"? I have TWO names, but what good are they when I have five children and no husband?

STUCK

DEAR ABBY: I am a Catholic and I'm proud of it. Since Catholics don't believe in divorce, even a baby on the way is not a

Samplers to show handicraft in month-long library display

A display of handwoven articles by members of The Samplers, Long Beach handweavers guild, will open Wednesday in Dorado Branch Library, 2900 Studebaker Road.

The exhibit will run through June 30 and contain decorative articles, including blankets, afghans, ponchos, towels, place mats, aprons and tapestries.

Library hours are noon to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturdays.

Mrs. Alfred Shor, 3420 Lama Ave., has information on The Samplers.

Tying the knot

The expression "to tie the knot" as a synonym for getting married dates back to ancient times when the knot was a symbol of faith.

The Aces on bridge

TEAM CAPTAIN

Slams are the most temperamental of bridge hands. In the bidding, one that is too high or one that is too low can mean disaster. In the play, one wrong move or one careless play and any obstacles overcome during the bidding can go easily down the drain.

Today's instructional slam hand is used by Ace Mike Lawrence to emphasize the importance of careful catering to the temperament of slam hands.

Opening lead: Ten of spades.

South made a trump shift to alert North of slam possibilities, and after a belated raise, bid a Blackwood four no-trump. After he found that two aces were not missing, he bid the small slam.

"This hand has several traps," explains Lawrence. "All of which must be averted to land the slam." The obvious line of play is to plan on discarding two clubs on the high diamond and high spade and then to hope that East has the club ace. A lead toward South's king would then limit the defense to one club trick, bringing home the contract.

The careful player looks for an additional chance. He wins the first trick with his spade ace (he needs the jack for an entry to dummy). A diamond is played to the ace and a diamond is ruffed.

The heart ace and a low heart to dummy's 10 places the lead in dummy for another diamond ruff (high trump). The last trump is drawn and the spade jack is led to dummy.

ONE CLUB is discarded on the good spade and two more on the established diamonds. A club trick is then conceded and the slam is scored.

What if diamonds had not been divided? Then South could always have fallen back on the club finesse.

Unsafe-tire black market thriving

By JOHN D. MORRIS

New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — A stiff new federal labeling regulation has failed to break up a thriving black market in unsafe automobile tires.

The continued illegal sale of tires classified as fit only for off-highway use recently prompted Douglas Toms, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, to send letters to all state governors appealing for help in stopping the practice.

And Mrs. Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs, issued a statement Sunday suggesting that manufacturers stop sending such tires to distributors and retailers.

She said she was pleased that one manufacturer, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, had done so and added, "I hope other major manufacturers follow Goodyear's lead."

THE TIRES are manufactured for general use but are reclassified as fit for non-highway use because of defects that prevent them from passing federal safety tests. About 185,000 such tires are produced each year and sent to distributors for sale to farmers. They are intended for tractors, wagons and similar off-highway farm equipment.

Although it is illegal to sell them for highway use, unscrupulous dealers have been doing so for several years after buffing off sidewall markings identifying them as unfit for highway vehicles.

A Transport Department regulation that went into effect last January requires sidewalls of such tires to be prominently marked "unsafe for highway use."

way use" in such a way that the lettering cannot be removed without leaving a scar.

But some dealers have been deleting the "un" from the word "unsafe" with a razor blade and representing the resulting blemish as an unimportant manufacturing defect. Others have sold the tires without tampering with the label by convincing purchasers that they were perfectly safe "factory seconds" that by a regulatory technicality had to be marked unsafe.

Federal investigators report that the tires are being sold for $14 or $15. Industry sources estimate the cost to dealers at $4 to $8.

ALTHOUGH several investigations are under way, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has not assessed any penalties since the new regulation became effective.

The federal auto safety law provides for penalties of up to $1,000 for each illegal tire sale.

Limited manpower and the time required to obtain evidence of more than one or two sales by any dealer have hampered enforcement by the safety agency.

In his letter to governors, Toms suggested that state automobile inspection procedures be revised to bar approval of cars equipped with reclassified tires.

In an interview, he also said the safety agency might issue a regulation requiring manufacturers to alter the tires in such a way that they could not be mounted on passenger cars.

Solon asks ban on firm's lead-free gasoline ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal asked Sunday for a ban on advertising of American Oil Co.'s lead-free gasolines because, he said, field tests have turned up traces of lead in the fuel.

The New York Democrat complained also that American Oil heavily advertises the lead-free premium it markets but makes little mention of its leaded regular. It sells an unleaded regular also.

Rosenthal, in a letter to Federal Trade Commission Chairman, Miles J. Kirkpatrick, called American's advertising "a serious instance of false advertising and a callous exploitation of the nation's growing concern over our environment by a major American corporation."

Everything fine with Angels

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer
WASHINGTON — Judge Harold R. Phillips held court in New York Sunday. Summonsed to preside at the trial of the California 14 — not to be confused with the Chicago 7 — Judge Phillips wasted precious little time in rendering a verdict. He found 14 members of the Angels guilty of loitering on the boulevards of New York after midnight curfew and fined them a total of $2,100 which averages out to $150 per defendant. After Judge Phillips had dispensed justice, the New York Yankees dispensed with the Angels, 7-4, spoiling rookie Andy Hassler's big league debut. Hassler, however, was not the loser. That distinction went to Archie Reynolds who was ANGEL OF DAY. None. battered about for four runs in a decisive Yankee sixth inning. Asked if the pre-game trial had any bearing on the outcome, Phillips sighed and said, "not a damn bit." Mel Stottlemyre, benefitting from a 14-hit attack, conquered the Angels for the six successive time, running his lifetime record against them to 13-3 and his seasonal mark to 6-2. Prosecuting Attorney

Pete Reiser accumulated the evidence against the Cal 14 with a bed check at the Roosevelt Hotel shortly after midnight. Twenty-three suspects were approached and 14 were found to be absent without leave. Only catcher Jeff Torborg, visiting his parents in New Jersey, and young Hassler, who was fitfully sleeping and pondering his first major league start, were exempt from Reiser's post-midnight investigation. The multiple fines were the first imposed by Phillips this year for curfew violations and came after a sluggish exhibition by the Angels in a 6-1 loss Saturday. "I'm getting tired of seeing this kind of thing," he said after the defeat. Some of the culprits offered minority dissenting opinions. "It's a major league fine for a minor league outfit," said one disgruntled adventurer. Commenting on the size of the fine, a victim ventured: "Well, everything's higher in New York." Another outspoken defendant commented, "it's a shame that you have to tell grown men what time to go to bed." Still another had this to say about the incident: "That's the last time I'm going to take a sleeping pill. I didn't hear the knock on the door." Judge Phillips, not known in the trade as a harsh, vindictive and unfair jurist, explained his verdict. "When men act like boys you've gotta treat them like boys. I don't think this will have too much effect on the veteran players but it may make the youngsters think a little. "I didn't play any favorites. Everybody that was caught was fined—and it was a flat fee." Judge Phillips handed down his decision in a team meeting called before Sunday's game. Before they took the field, three of the guilty night-lifers had coughed up the $150 which will be immediately deposited in the Minnie Rojas fund. The $2,100 in fines represents a club record, easily surpassing the $1,000 removed from the pockets of those famous boulevardiers—Dean Chance and Bo Belinsky—for a Palm Springs escapade. The total might have climbed higher but Phillips looked compassionately upon one of his coaches who was requested to help in the search. But when the manager-magistrate went to look for his aide, he was AWOL, too. Reiser's nocturnal meanderings through the hotel were a much-discussed subject on the bus to the ball park Sunday. "I'm so &0-$10$ mad, I (Continued Page C-3, Col. 3)

Education returns to original purpose
Educational Resources — an imposing name. It deserves it. The organization headed by Jack Gibbs, principal of East High School in Columbus, O., devotes its attention to helping graduates move on to college educations. "We work on three things to help the young people," says Gibbs. "We help young people and their parents fill out forms and obtain papers that are necessary for enrollment in college. We also help the youngsters get to college campuses. Once they are admitted, we try to give them additional aid. If, for instance, they have received a scholarship that might provide one-third of their expenses, we try to get them funds for the other two-thirds." On Friday of this week, Educational Resources is going to honor three persons at a dinner in Columbus. One is Ed Ratleff, who won national acclaim this past season as a sophomore star on the Cal State Long Beach basketball team. The others are Cal State coach Jerry Tarkanian and his assistant, Ivan Duncan. None of three is being saluted solely for his basketball or coaching achievements. "We take a close, personal interest in our graduates," points out principal Gibbs. "When Eddie Ratleff decided to go West to attend college, it sort of opened new horizons for others at East High School. We now have about 10 East High graduates in colleges in the West. They wouldn't have gone so far from home if it hadn't been for Eddie Ratleff's lead and the help of Jerry Tarkanian and Ivan Duncan. Those coaches have helped us find places in colleges for these young people. Their concern for kids goes far beyond basketball itself. We like that and we're going to show them we do."

Jim Gaumer played so poorly in the Pasadena City championship a year ago that he decided to forgo that medal tournament this year and try his luck at match play in Long Beach. The decision turned out to be a momentous one for the 21-year-old Garden Grove golfer, because today he owns the most prestigious title of his young life, the Long Beach City Championship. Gaumer, who plays out of El Niguel, made it look easy for the fifth time in six matches, beating Long Beach's Mike Fedderly, 4-3, Sunday at Recreation Park in a 36-hole match that ended after 33. The 5-foot-9, 190-pound Gaumer led 3 up after nine holes and 6 up after 18, then turned conservative and was never in real trouble. hile even though Fedderly made a mild comeback. The critical moment, according to both golfers, was the fifth hole in the afternoon, the same hole which Fedderly birdied on Saturday for his thrilling 23-hole victory over Mike Nichols. Fedderly had cut his morning deficit from six to four by winning the second hole with a 20-foot birdie and the fourth when Gaumer missed a 4-footer. When he chipped up for a "gimme" par on the fifth hole and Gaumer ran his chip five feet past, the moment of truth was upon Gaumer. A good but not consistent putter, Jim ran in his five-footer, and for all practical purposes, the match was over. At least Fedderly thought so. Scorecards

Picture this: It's the 12th inning, the score is tied, the Dodgers have the bases loaded and it's an obvious spot for a pinch hitter. So Walter Alston calls on Willie Crawford — yes, Willie C., the man who's struggled year after year with the Dodgers and now, DODGER OF DAY WILLIE CRAWFORD drove in winning run in 12th inning as Dodgers edged Phillies, 2-1. Crawford delivered, too, with a sacrifice fly and it scored Rich Allen with the winning run in a tense, 2-1, 12-inning struggle with the Philadelphia Phillies before 36,385 Dodger Stadium fans. "I wouldn't have gone to Willie in that situation too many weeks ago," admitted the manager, Walter Alston, "but he's got the hot bat." It's a considerable change for the 24-year-old Crawford who undoubtedly would have been shipped to Spokane following his poor spring in which he hit only .200. But the only thing that saved him was the fact he had no options remaining. So he stuck with the big club. He sat around and pinch hit once in a while. He got a few hits, too. But whenever a critical pinch hitting situation would arise it went to someone else. "I didn't get down," the quiet-spoken Willie said, recalling those days last month. "Richie (Rich Allen) kept telling me that if I was to be a pinch hitter, then do it well. Whatever I did, do it well. Whatever I told me. So I did. I kept trying and working and — the big thing — relaxing at the plate. All I wanted was to get an opportunity." The opportunities began to come and Crawford made the most of them. Saturday night, in a 3-3 romper over the Phillies, Crawford tripled, doubled (Continued Page C-4, Col. 1)

By ROBERT BOHLE
The De Anza Aquatic Foundation water polo team, led by three goals in the second half by Peter Asch, won the 1971 Senior Men's National Indoor championships Sunday at the Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool. De Anza breezed past Concord, 10-4, and the Phillips 66 Flyers, 9-6, in the final round. The Flyers, who were undefeated in the first two rounds, lost both games Sunday. "The guys were remembering 1968," a happy De Anza coach, Art Lambert, said after the final game. "Our team and Phillips are just about the same teams as then, and they blew us out. It was a matter of pride. I feel real good about winning this one," Lambert continued. "We were undefeated and we beat everybody entered in the tournament." The Flyers were defeated by CINA in the morning, 7-6, and could have thrown the tourney into a three-way tie by defeating De Anza in the final game. The championship would have then been decided on goal averages. The Flyers stayed right with De Anza until the last seconds of the first half when Bill Gerdt took a long pass from Gary Sheerer and fired a goal past Tony Van Dorp to give his team a two-goal lead at intermission. The Flyers never recovered. The three goals by Asch, who along with Sheerer and Gerdt played outstanding games the entire tournament, locked up the win for the Northerners. "It was a good close game," Phillips coach Bob Horn observed. "They got a couple of breaks and we made a couple of mistakes." Ed Newland's CINA (Continued Page C-2, Col. 5)

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: Says Cal football coach Ray Wilkey: "It's pleasing none of our three quarterback candidates showed any real weakness that would disqualify him as a Pacific-8 caliber quarterback." In other words, if you can't say anything good, don't say anything bad."
SPORTS CHATTER: USC football coach John McKay isn't concerned about the Pacific-8 limitation of 35 scholarships per year, with the right to carry over five to the next season if the 35 aren't used. "If you can't recruit the right guys with 35 or 40 scholarships, you aren't going to be able to with 100 scholarships each year," says McKay. "The Trojans are sweating out national letters of intent on several out-of-state football and track prospects. Among the "four or five" signed are Regis Grice and Bob Miller of Memphis, Tenn. Still unsigned is Marshall Dill of Northern High in Detroit. Michigan State is pushing hard. Dill has told Spartan recruiters he does not wish to play football his first year in college. He's a 9.3 sprinter with definite Olympic ambitions. . . . Dill is 6-3, 195. You can bet all the schools would agree to his desire to concentrate on track for a year. . . . Big news on the sports information directors' front: Gary Wright of Cal State Long Beach has decided against trying prep football coaching. In addition to his SID duties for the 49ers, Wright has been appointed coordinator of recruiting by football coach Jim Stangeland and will work with special units. Bob Mazza, Pepperdine's capable publicity director, has been appointed national public relations chairman for the Amateur Ath-

Mays sets run record; Giants win pair

1,951 runs for Willie

Willie Mays' records continue to grow and grow — just like that San Francisco Giant lead in the National League West.

Mays took another step toward baseball immortality and the Giants another toward a runaway division title victory Sunday in a 5-4 and 8-7 sweep of the Montreal Expos.

NATIONAL

Mays hit his 10th homer of the season and the 638th of his career in the first game to raise his career runs scored total to an NL high of 1,950. The total surpassed by one the previous mark held by Stan Musial and he scored No. 1,951 in the second game. The major league record of 2,244 is held by Ty Cobb.

Tito Fuentes' bases-filled single with two out in the ninth inning enabled the Giants to win the second game and ballooned their West Division lead to 10½ games—one of the largest ever held by a team on Memorial Day.

Mays' two-run homer climaxed a three-run seventh inning rally which earned Gaylord Perry his sixth win of the season in the opener. The two RBIs also raised Mays' career total to 1,827 — tying him with Al Simmons for ninth place on the all-time list. Jerry Johnson finished up for the Giants and received credit for his sixth save.

The Expos took a 7-5 lead into the ninth of the nightcap after routing Rich Robertson with a five-run rally in the fourth. But two walks sandwiched around Bobby Bonds' single — his fourth hit of the game — and a wild pitch by Mike Marshall set the stage for Fuentes' game-winning hit.

The St. Louis Cardinals downed the Atlanta Braves, 8-3, the Pittsburgh Pirates routed the Chicago Cubs, 10-0, the Cincinnati Reds edged the Houston Astros, 2-1, the Dodgers shaded the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-1 in 12 innings and the San Diego Padres defeated the New York Mets, 4-2.

Joe Hague and Jose Cardenal each drove in three runs and Lou Brock ran his consecutive-game hitting streak to 26 as the Cardinals bombed Phil Niekro and three relievers with a 12-hit attack.

Steve Carlton, 10-19 in 1970, pitched an eight-hitter to raise his 1971 mark to 9-2. Brock has now hit safely in 42 of the Cardinals' 48 games.

Willie Stargell, Roberto Clemente and Bob Robertson led a 10-hit Pittsburgh attack with homers as the Cubs' Ken Holtzman was saddled with his sixth defeat against two victories. Bob Moose pitched a three-hitter and struck out seven, raising his record to 4-2. Dave Cash had four hits for the Pirates.

First baseman John Mayberry's error on Bernie Carbo's seventh inning grounder enabled Johnny Bench to score the winning run for the Reds and give rookie Ross Grimsley his second win. Bench was 0-for-21 when he beat out an infield hit with one out in the seventh and he went to second when Tony Perez, hitless in 20 trips, beat out a hit to short prior to Mayberry's error. Jack Billingham was the loser.

Ivan Murrell's two-run, tie-breaking homer in the fifth inning enabled San Diego's Clay Kirby to win his third game of the season while dealing the Mets' Ray Sadecki his first loss. Murrell's second homer of the season came after Nate Colbert walked.

HOME? NO PLACE LIKE IT

NO BUFFALO are supposed to roam here, but Houston catcher Jack Hiatt (above) and Angel backstop John Stephenson (right) must wonder if they do, at times. Above, Hiatt takes blast from Cincinnati's Tony Perez, but holds onto ball for out. Stephenson had better luck, to degree. He was unable to tag out Bobby Mercer, but it was baserunning Yankee who was knocked groggy in their collision.

DAVE LEWIS

Dadi Balsara:
I predict...

While in Honolulu recently, we were visiting an old newspaper buddy when he suddenly noted the time.

"Hey, I've got to go to a press conference. It won't take long, come on with me," he said.

The press conference was held to introduce Dadi Balsara, 35-year-old executive director of the International Center for Yoga and Asvo-Palmistry in Hong Kong.

He was in the islands for a couple of lectures before coming on to the mainland for more appearances including guest shots on national TV.

Sports is not Balsara's claim to fame in the bewitching world of predicting developments in the future.

However, he's had some experience with forecasting major sports attractions and admits that "at heart, I'm somewhat of a sports fan. I follow sports as closely as I can, especially those held in the United States."

Balsara bases his predictions on many things, including astrology, numerology, palmistry, "vibrations" and laughs as he says "some people say I throw in a little old-fashioned fortune telling, some voodoo and a few witch doctor practices."

PALMISTRY, HE MAINTAINS, can reveal a great deal about a person. He's read the palms of many of the world's most famous people, including Winston Churchill, a couple of the Russian cosmonauts and the world's greatest tennis player, Rod Laver.

"Mr. Laver is a great athlete. I see nothing but success for him in the future," Balsara revealed.

Basing his forecast on astrology, numerology and vibrations, he was an instant hit with Honolulu people when he reached the sports portion of his press conference, predicting that Hawaii will soon get a professional sports franchise.

"In fact," he went on, "negotiations probably will be started sometime next year to bring a professional team to Honolulu. A franchise for Hawaii may be accepted by late 1974."

He also forecast a second pro franchise for the islands "by 1976," which supports the information we passed along to readers the past week that Hawaii was in line for pro football and basketball franchises within a few years.

HONOLULU SPORTS LEADERS WERE WORRIED by a report that construction on their new sports stadium would be delayed, but Balsara delivered some good news when he stated "it may be held up for a couple of months or so, but work will begin no later than November."

Balsara then obliged with a forecast on the 1971 baseball races. "This year's World Series will be won by a team on the West Coast," he declared.

There are still four possibilities, of course — the Dodgers, Angels, San Francisco Giants and Oakland A's. But as of now, it would appear that it would be either the Giants or A's who would be the most likely to fulfill his forecast.

Balsara pointed out that when he began, 18 years ago, his predictions would come true 50 per cent of the time. "Within the last five years, however, I've been correct 85 to 90 per cent of the time," he said. He has documents and newspaper clippings to confirm many of his predictions.

BALSARA DISPLAYED THE CLIPPING showing where he correctly predicted Joe Frazier would defeat Muhammad Ali in their heavyweight championship fight three months ago.

What about the future of Ali? Balsara stated that in his estimation, Muhammad made a big mistake changing his name.

"Names affect people. When you change your name, your vibrations change, too," he insists. "As Cassius Clay, he was under the influence of Mars, a strong planet. Now, with his new name, the period covering the current year does not look too good for him. In fact, he is likely to hear some bad news very soon."

THIS WAS INTERPRETED AS MEANING that the Supreme Court ruling on his draft-evasion case, which should be handed down any day now, would go against him. This would mean a jail term.

However, Balsara declined to be more specific. "It could be some other kind of bad news," he said.

WE'VE ALWAYS wondered how "seers" like Balsara, Peter Hurkos, Jeanne Dixon, etc., would truly make out in the stock market or wagering on sports events.

While admitting he has some limitations, Balsara claims he can correctly predict the first two finishers in horse races "60 per cent of the time." However, he points out that he has to be present at the track to do so.

Wouldn't he be a whiz at the Exacts? Big payoffs like the $7,048.50 recorded at Hollywood Park Friday should be right down his alley.

Before he returns home to Hong Kong, we hope he'll be able to accept an invitation to spend a day at the races with us.

A guy should be able to get well at a 60 per cent clip, especially using a progression system!

SOUTH SQUAD ASSIGNMENT TO HERBOLD

Lakewood High's John Herbold and Angie Lambert of L.A. Wilson, respective winners of 1970 CIF Southern Section and Los Angeles City champs, will coach the South in the third California Police Athletic League North-South game Friday night June 25th at Anaheim Stadium.

Teams are in the process of being selected.

could cuss," said one of the Cal 14.

"Everybody's been popping off about it, so you guys may as well write about it," said Judge Phillips, who normally likes to keep his disciplinary actions out of the public prints.

Phillips probably would have preferred to keep the results of Sunday's skirmish a mystery, too.

After Tony Conigliaro's two-run homer into the left field seats had presented Hassler with a 3-1 lead in the fourth, the Yanks began a counter-attack, finally chasing the rookie in the fifth when three hits produced a run.

Then Reynolds surrendered a leadoff single to Horace Clarke in the sixth, walked Thurman Munson and the Yanks were in business. Roy White and Bobby Murcer followed with run-scoring hits and Reynolds departed. Mel Queen came on and yielded a scoring double to John Ellis and a fourth run came across when Syd O'Brien allowed a throw from the outfield to elude his glove.

Their big inning, in the manager's opinion, had come the night before.

ANGEL ANGLE: Andy Messersmith has been sent home to Anaheim because of a pulled groin muscle, further depleting the Angel pitching corps which is already minus Rube Rucker. Messersmith may be able to return to the team in time to face the Senators in Washington Wednesday. Terry Mulvihill will pitch for the Angels in a Memorial Day game at Anaheim. The Angels gathered two more hits Sunday and now owns a five-game streak. He has hit safely and driven in at least one run in each of his four games since returning to the lineup Wednesday in Oakland. Pitcher Jim Hardin, just acquired by the Yanks from Baltimore, had a rude welcome to New York. Tuleve ransacked his car Saturday night, stealing all his clothing and a briefcase containing money. Rookie Andy Hassler admitted he was battling a severe case of butterflies before his initial major league start. He is known to the assignment since Thursday when his manager in Salt Lake, Alvin Karpis, told him "I could hardly get my breath when he told me," Hassler said. Although he allowed eight hits in four-plus innings, Hassler pitched out of several tight spots, once turning away the Yanks with runners on first and third and none out. In all, the Yankees stranded four runners. Hassler missed two weeks earlier in the season when he pulled a cartilage in his ribs. He said it wasn't a factor Sunday.

PUTTING MAKES PERFECT

Little shots in golf are as important as long ones, and Jim Gaumer made both Sunday while storming to 4-3 victory over Mike Fedderly in finals of Long Beach City golf championships at Recreation Park.

PREP STARS MEET AT CERRITOS

High school track talent will converge on Cerritos College tonight for the already once-delayed CIF Southern Section championships.

Field events begin at 6, first running event at 7:45. Showers last Friday made the field too muddy for competition.

Top five finishers in each division will qualify for Friday and Saturday's state meet at UCLA.

Six schools are in contention for the Southern Section title, including Poly. Defending champion Santa Ana, Garden Grove, Longport, Centennial or Dominguez could all finish first.

Gaumer captures City golf tourney and fourth holes, lost the fifth, then won the seventh when Fedderly failed on a 4½-footer. The champ turned in 35, the loser in 39.

Another 4½-footer failed to drop on No. 10 for Fedderly, but he got it back when Gaumer bogeyed his first hole of the day, the 12th. Then came a blitz of four wins in five holes for Gaumer that wrapped up the match.

A par was good enough on the 13th when Fedderly snapped hooked into the trees, and Gaumer birdied the 14th, 16th and 17th from 12 feet, 6 feet and four inches. In between, he three-putted the 15th but his lead was a safe six.

"I need to win three holes fast," Fedderly said between rounds, and he almost did. He lipped out a birdie from four feet on No. 1, then won the second and fourth before Gaumer dropped his clutch putt on No. 5.

Fedderly stayed alive after that, but barely. He saved a six-foot par putt on No. 6 and did the same from 17 feet on No. 8. Finally, Gaumer birdied No. 9 from three feet to hike his lead to five and there was no longer any doubt.

The agony was prolonged when Gaumer flubbed a 2-footer on No.

13. He almost ended it with a bird on 14, then it came to a climax on 15 when Fedderly missed a birdie putt from five feet.

For 33 holes, Gaumer was even par. The 33-year-old Fedderly, who plays out of Lakewood, was even in the afternoon but 5-over in the morning.

"I just couldn't get it together in the morning," said Fedderly. "I was short with a wedge on the second hole and I never got the ball up the rest of the round."

Fedderly, the gallery favorite, lost to Bill McCormick in the finals two years ago and has been ousted three other times in the semis, including last year when he lost to eventual champion Willard Bryan.

"I lost to a better man today," said the gracious loser. "But I'm satisfied overall with my performance. I'm just a Sunday golfer, and he plays every day. He has better stamina and he knows where his clubhouse is all the time."

Gaumer, who played in this tournament in 1968 and 1969, twice losing in the second round, thought the driver was the best club in his bag. But he didn't miss many shots of any kind, finishing 4-over-par for 105 holes. He had 12 birdies and 16 bogies.

"I was steady," was Jim's remark after every round. Indeed, he was. Like a machine.

Gaumer's wins were 6-5 vs. Dave Graska, 7-6 over Bill Workman, 6-5 vs. Don Rindfleisch, 3-2 vs. Norm Saunders, 1 up over Rich Plante and 4-3 Sunday. He trailed in only one match, against Plante.

The husky blond, who plays No. 3 at Cal State L.A., said he would play in Long Beach's new 54-hole medal tournament over Labor Day, then return to defend his match play crown next spring.

Pasadena is for little old ladies. Gaumer says Long Beach is now the place for him.

LONGSHOT—HILL CLOUD

Stretch-running Pinjara, winner of more races on the turf course at Hollywood Park than any other horse, will make a third attempt at winning the Lakeside Handicap today as the Ingewood track presents a special Memorial Day program. First post is 1 p.m.

The Howard B. Keck-owned six-year-old is the probable favorite for the gross purse of $82,400, and his regular rider, Bill Shoemaker, will make up most of his high weight assignment of 124 pounds.

Such turf performers as Advance Guard, Divide and Rule, and Brokers Tip II will challenge Pinjara in the one mile event which attracted a full field of 12. Fleet Surprise, Denchon, Big Shot II, Triple Axe, Flagonero, Most Host, Earl Of Milldale and Gracious Knight complete the lineup.

Two years ago Pinjara was the odds-on favorite in the second division and finished third — only a head behind Court Fool and Most Host—despite having injured his back during the race. Last year he hit the finish line a short nose behind his brilliant stablemate Fiddle Isle, as the timer flashed an American turf record of 1.34.

After a slow start at Santa Anita this winter, Pinjara gradually returned to the form that has made him one of the top middle-distance turf specialists in the country for the past four years. In his first start of the Hollywood Park meeting he charged from last place to beat Broker's Tip and Daryl's Joy in the Crenshaw Stakes and three weeks later he again bested Broker's Tip in an overnight handicap.

The New Zealand-bred Broker's Tip and fellow countryman Divide And Rule, both owned by Mrs. Maribel Blum and trained by Arnold Winick, make up a powerful entry in the Lakeside. Michael Hole will fly in from the east to pilot Broker's Tip while Laffit Pincay, Jr., has been engaged to ride Divide And Rule.

Broker's Tip has had two chances against Pinjara and has been unable to match the latter's powerful finish. Divide And Rule is an unknown quantity, though, and may be the more talented half of the entry.

Trails Nicklaus in winnings

Memphis payday for Trevino

MEMPHIS (UPI) — Happy-go-lucky Lee Trevino fired a final round 67 to capture the $175,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Classic Sunday with a 12-under-par 268 and vault into second place in money winnings on the professional golf tour this year.

The victory paid Trevino $35,000 and upped his winnings to $115,785, second only to Jack Nicklaus. The Golden Bear, who passed up this tournament, has won $131,788.

Trevino, whose flat swing is the delight of golfers everywhere, led all the way in the final three rounds after carding a four-under-par 66 Friday and finished four strokes ahead.

His lead dropped to one stroke at one point Sunday after he bogied the par-four 8th hole to turn in an even par for the day. But he again pulled away with a birdie on 10 and was never seriously challenged the rest of the way.

Grouped in second place at eight-under-par 272 were Jerry Heard, Hale Irwin, Randy Wolff and Lee Elder. They each won $12,706.

Trevino, picking up speed on the back side, shaved three strokes off par with birdies on two of the three par fives in addition to the par-four, 298-yard 10th hole.

The chunky Texan topped off his round, to the delight of the huge gallery, at 18 by chipping out of the right trap to within one foot of the stick for a tap-in bird.

After the tournament, Trevino said he would end his two-year boycott of the Masters next year — if he is invited. Trevino said Nicklaus had persuaded him to return to the Masters, which he criticized as a course which did not reward good shots or penalize bad ones.

He said he was playing an exhibition with Nicklaus at West Palm Beach earlier this year and in the locker room Nicklaus told him he ought to return to the Masters because "you don't really realize how good you can play this game."

Trevino said "I wasn't really playing it cosy on the front but everything went according to game plan."

"I made the turn even," he said, "and I converted No. 10. I told the caddy if I scored a 67 I thought I

Sunday racing debuts

STANTON, Del. — Hickory Tree Stable's Favoritecidan won the $30,500 Brandywine Turf Handicap by a nose over Tudor Reward at Delaware Park in the first Sunday racing at a major thoroughbred track in this country.

Topweighted and favored North Flight was third of the 10 starters in the 1-16 mile grass feature, 3 1/4 lengths away. The victor, earning $19,825 paid $17, $7.40 and $4.40. Tudor Reward returned $4.60 and $3. and North Flight, $3. The time, made on soft turf, was 1:44 1/2. Bill Passmore was the victorious jockey.

Midway through the program it became apparent that the chilly, damp weather would keep business well below what had been hoped for under normal conditions.

Track President Baird C. Brittingham said: "Considering the elements, this was a very good showing."

Pitchers on mark in Connie Mack slam bid

Great pitching highlighted the first two games and then the sluggers took over Sunday afternoon at Blair Field in Connie Mack action.

Scott Marchael hurled a two-hit 7-0 shutout over Johnson's Sawdust in the second game after Steve Hudson and Dave Young were deadlocked in a 2-2, 11-inning tie in the opener.

Mrs. Court loses grand slam bid

PARIS (AP) — Mrs. Gail Chanfreau of France ruined Mrs. Margaret Court's bid for a second consecutive tennis grand slam when she stunned the Australian 6-3, 6-4 Sunday in the third round of the French Open.

In men's play, Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles won their third round matches after rain delays and gave the United States six players among the final 16.

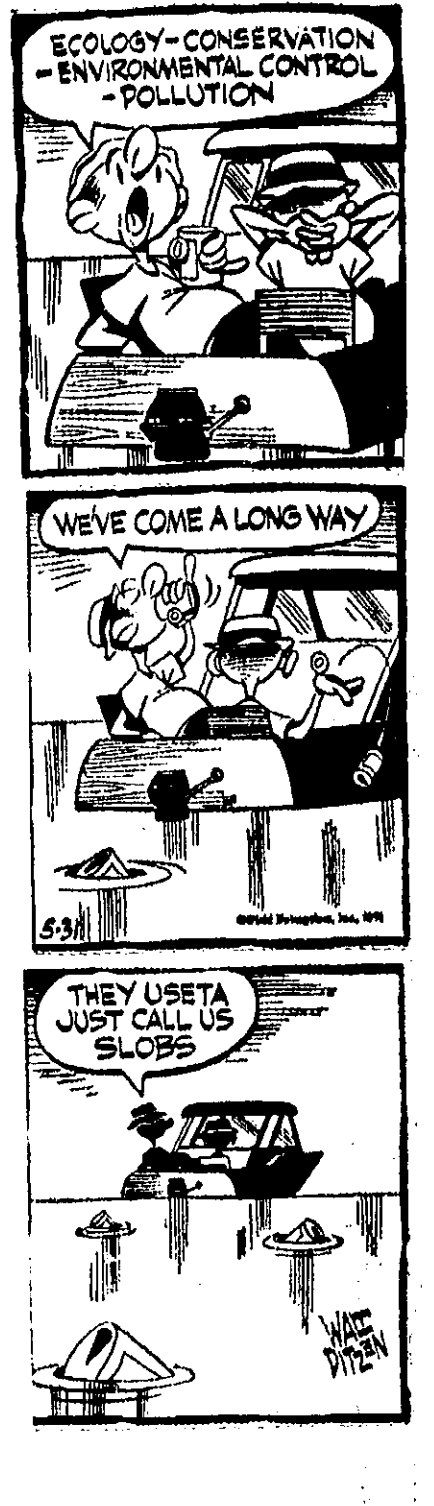

Mrs. Court, seeking her fifth French title on the red clay courts of Roland Garros Stadium, was never in the match as she fell behind 2-5 in the first set. Mrs. Chanfreau easily could have won the first four games of the second set, but dropped her two service games after being ahead.

Richey, seeded fourth, whipped Colin Dibley of Australia 6-1, 6-3, 8-6 and Lutz, No. 9, staggered to a 6-1, 5-7, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 victory.

Forecast for Tuesday

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Your increased understanding of people and their needs will bring you success in serving those needs on the one hand. On the other is more confidence in your own ability to handle personal affairs from general public view, less exposure is desired by you to the media.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your Initiative inspires others. An early start is most likely to lead to a successful outcome at the end. Find time for serious study, meditation, inner guidance for a complete picture.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Resolve to be practical in the month ahead; begin by not taking on too much. Finish what is pending. Finishing this week.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Jumping to conclusions is easy — and most likely cause of trouble. Pay attention to wild stories and provocation.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Investigation in your own special interests promises results; let nobody talk you out of making a search or take action on discovery. Your thinking goes on apace.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sep. 23): Change your thinking regarding work and career opportunities. You have not tried certain things yet and perhaps should. A general attitude of housecleaning, both real and symbolic, is indicated.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Avoid for the time being any new commitments or responsibilities. You may feel that you are being pulled in many directions, but it is not quite within sight.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This is a slow or uphill sort of day. You do not want to get into a fight with anyone, but you are the broadest range of vision. Try to look and understand why others are doing what they are doing.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some of the more personal affairs, such as general notice, Specialization may represent definite changes in your life. You may see your next; the face you present to the world.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are too firmly and long on your own way. You may find that the things which later turn out not to be the most important are the things that you have chosen. Think big and expand your range.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your spiritual enthusiasm sets a new example. First others in actual activities, but then a simplification of normal schedules.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Whatever you do, do it with a purpose. Whatever you say, say it with conviction. You will be pressed; be definitely reminded that you are not alone. You may be asked to press, announce short-range plans.

Networks to upgrade programs for children

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Ambitious plans for children's TV, now being attacked by civic and parental groups as never before, are being prepared for next season by commercial and public TV networks.

Many critics may be skeptical on the basis of past shattered prophecies of a cultural flowering of TV for children, but network officials agree that they are in the midst of an unprecedented spate of creativity. They say that they are trying to improve the more prestigious programs and to upgrade the excoriated cartoon shows that fill much of the week-end morning schedules.

"Even if they don't deliver as promised, there's now even more real creativity in children's programming than in the rest of TV," one industry observer commented.

George Heinemann, vice president of children's programming for NBC said that the network will add three new children's programs to its Saturday morning lineup, starting with "Barrier Reef," a half-hour adventure series at 10 a.m. The program, which will be shot entirely on location off Australia's Great Barrier Reef, will involve the exploration of scientists aboard a 220-ton research vessel called the Endeavor.

Love story by Smithsonian

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

The Smithsonian Institution in conjunction with CBS is going to produce a series of broadcasts starting June 13, called "Smithsonian Adventure" and its opening program is calculated to grab you.

The subject of the first of the broadcasts, to air "periodically," is "Search for the Goddess of Love." Well, maybe the title will grab you more than the subject matter, although there is a detective story sort of aspect to it.

What it's about is the controversy over the long-lost original Aphrodite — the ancient statue which has been missing for some 1,500 years. Coincidentally, the name of the archeologist who has been in the center of the controversy is Iris Love. She has been on the trail of the statue for a long time and claims to have turned up some parts of the Aphrodite known to have been carved in Athens around 350 B.C. by Praxiteles. It disappeared in the 5th century A.D.

THE PROGRAM, to be hosted by former astronaut

Walter M. Schirra, will trace Miss Love's attempts to unravel the mystery and her findings, some of which have been disputed by other archeologists.

The Aphrodite in question was the first nude statue of a woman in Greek art. "The Smithsonian Adventure" takes place in great measure on the western coast of Turkey at the site of the buried city of Knidos which Miss Love believes is the long-sought tomb of Aphrodite. She has unearthed two marble fingers, a wrist section of a hand and two pieces of drapery carved in marble which she believes solves the mystery.

Miss Love, who as a senior at Smith College, won fame by proving that two famous statues were not authentic and convinced museum authorities to remove them, believes that the head of her Aphrodite has already been discovered (by Sir Charles Newton in the 19th century) and in the British Museum. The museum, however, does not agree with her.

"Search for the Goddess of Love," says Schirra, "is a search that may never end. Miss Love, an archelogical detective, is looking for the original in a painstakingly persistent and often lonely investigation."

DR. MARTHA BOAZ, dean of the School of Library Science, USC, will present a series of 35 half-hour programs, "The Living Library," on Ch. 2 at 6:30 a.m., starting June 7. The program, taught for one unit of undergraduate credit, will air for seven weeks, Monday through Friday. Those wishing to enroll for credit may obtain further information by calling USC.

U.S. youths end Cuban work tour

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (AP) — The Cuban vessel Jose Antonio Echevarria arrived here over the weekend with 226 young Americans who had spent 2½ months working in Cuba's sugar cane fields. They left by bus and car for their homes in the United States.

A spokesman had no comment beyond saying the group had assisted with the Cuban sugar harvest. Several similar groups of Americans have traveled through here in the past year, en route either to or from Cuba.

Mission Inn on auction block; Nixon wed there

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — The 95-year-old Mission Inn, where President Nixon was married and four other presidents were guests goes on the auction block Tuesday.

San Francisco hotelman Ben Swig told Riverside Mayor Ben Lewis he plans to close the historic hotel and auction off its furnishings.

The inn has been in financial difficulties for a number of years and was closed in 1969 for three days because of bankruptcy proceedings.

The inn opened in 1876 as a two-story, 12-room adobe hostelry.

In 1884, Frank Miller, son of the founder, bought the inn and enlarged it to its present sprawling size of 300 guest rooms, a number of large public rooms and a wedding chapel.

Richard Nixon and his wife Pat were married at the inn June 21, 1940.

Presidents Benjamin Harrison, William McKinley, William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt all stayed at the inn, a massive building which is a mixture of Spanish and early California architecture.

Pilot describes crash

'It was kind of psychedelic'

RED BLUFF (UPI) — "We dropped to 2,500 feet. The clouds didn't break. I was very nervous. Then I brought the nose up and was at a maximum rate of climb. Then everything was in slow motion. The only way I can describe the crash was it was kind of psychedelic."

James Meyers, 18, Kent, Wash., told his story from a hospital bed Sunday less than 24 hours after the plane he was piloting crashed into fog-shrouded mountains 23 miles southwest of here Friday night.

The craft carried three of Meyers' friends, all students at the University of Washington. The four

3 killed as speedboat hits cable

RIO VISTA — Three persons were killed and four injured when their speedboat hit a ferry cable stretched across Steamboat Slough, slicing through the craft just above the waterline.

The Sacramento County Coroner's office said Sunday the dead were Jack Amis, 38, and his wife, Janis, age unknown, of Santa Clara, and an unidentified 1-year-old girl whose body was missing. The Amis' bodies were recovered.

The taut steel cable cut halfway through the 16-foot boat Saturday, leaving the undamaged fiberglass hull still afloat.

Rio Vista Fire Chief Evan Buchanan said the vessel was southbound in the slough, 31 miles south of Sacramento, when it hit the cable of the Ryer Island Ferry. Victor Morden of Antioch, the ferry operator, said the cable-drawn ferry "J-Mack" was about one-fourth of the way across the 370-foot wide slough at the time.

The injured included Kipper Amis, 5, son of the dead couple, and Mike Smith, 28, of San Jose. Both were in satisfactory condition at Lodi Memorial Hospital.

Smith's wife, Peggy, and their daughter were treated and released.

RR WORKER STUMBLES, DECAPITATED

About 50 members of two rival Mexican-American gangs clashed at a beer hall in Glendora, leaving one youth seriously stabbed and a sheriff's deputy knicked under an eye by a knife, officers said Sunday.

Fernando Martinez, 19, of Pomona was undergoing treatment for a collapsed lung in Pomona Valley Hospital. Sheriff's Sgt. Don Butler was treated for a cut on the face and released.

Investigators said it took about 30 officers almost a half-hour to quell Saturday night's fight between a Pomona group and another from Chino.

A Union Pacific Railroad employe was decapitated Sunday when he stumbled and fell beneath the wheels of a moving railroad car he was attempting to link with another in a City of Commerce yard.

Sheriff's deputies said the accident in which Thomas C. Macintosh, 22, of Alhambra, was killed, occurred in the company's yards near the Long Beach Freeway.

has offered it at a price of $750,000. But Lewis said it was hoped a private individual or firm would buy it.

The mayor noted that city law prohibits the removal from the city of certain fixtures of the inn which are considered of historical value — such as the ornate doors, windows and other permanent fixtures.

MAYOR LEWIS said he hopes Swig will not follow through with his plans, but added Swig appeared determined to do so.

The city has considered buying the hotel and Swig spent a frightening night near the wreckage, before they were all rescued by helicopter.

"I never knew what we hit. When I had the feeling of 'coming to' the plane had stopped," Meyers said.

THE RIGHT SIDE of the plane was torn open in the crash and passengers John Whitney, 19, and Larry Knechtel, 19, were thrown out. Meyers and Kathleen Kern, 18, remained in the plane, which had lost both wings.

The students were flying from Washington to San Francisco for the three-day Memorial Day weekend when the plane encountered bad weather. Meyers was trying to break a low cloud ceiling when the plane hit five feet below the 2,500 foot hill. He figured the craft was traveling 140 mph when it crashed. It went over the top of the hill and slid down the other side.

"None of us should have come out alive," Meyers recalled after seeing the plane when daybreak finally came.

"IT WAS COLD during the night. The girl and I cuddled up. We bundled the others up. I tore my shirt off to cover my nose," Meyers said. He suffered cuts and bruises. The girl sprained her ankle and the other two passengers suffered broken bones.

Meyers said he credited the quick rescue to a small electronic beeper which he purchased for $47. The portable gadget, which is two inches long, was in Miss Kern's purse when the plane crashed.

A Civil Air Patrol plane picked up the signal from the beeper and zeroed in on the crash scene.

He said the small device was lost during the crash but it was found and activated. Meyers put it on top of the hill and waited. He wasn't sure it was working.

spent a frightening night near the wreckage, before they were all rescued by helicopter.

"I never knew what we hit. When I had the feeling of 'coming to' the plane had stopped," Meyers said.

THE RIGHT SIDE of the plane was torn open in the crash and passengers John Whitney, 19, and Larry Knechtel, 19, were thrown out. Meyers and Kathleen Kern, 18, remained in the plane, which had lost both wings.

The students were flying from Washington to San Francisco for the three-day Memorial Day weekend when the plane encountered bad weather. Meyers was trying to break a low cloud ceiling when the plane hit five feet below the 2,500 foot hill. He figured the craft was traveling 140 mph when it crashed. It went over the top of the hill and slid down the other side.

"None of us should have come out alive," Meyers recalled after seeing the plane when daybreak finally came.

"IT WAS COLD during the night. The girl and I cuddled up. We bundled the others up. I tore my shirt off to cover my nose," Meyers said. He suffered cuts and bruises. The girl sprained her ankle and the other two passengers suffered broken bones.

Meyers said he credited the quick rescue to a small electronic beeper which he purchased for $47. The portable gadget, which is two inches long, was in Miss Kern's purse when the plane crashed.

A Civil Air Patrol plane picked up the signal from the beeper and zeroed in on the crash scene.

He said the small device was lost during the crash but it was found and activated. Meyers put it on top of the hill and waited. He wasn't sure it was working.

"Then we heard a plane. It got louder and louder and flew over," he said. Later a helicopter picked them up.

Glendora gangs battle in beer hall

About 50 members of two rival Mexican-American gangs clashed at a beer hall in Glendora, leaving one youth seriously stabbed and a sheriff's deputy knicked under an eye by a knife, officers said Sunday.

Fernando Martinez, 19, of Pomona was undergoing treatment for a collapsed lung in Pomona Valley Hospital. Sheriff's Sgt. Don Butler was treated for a cut on the face and released.

Investigators said it took about 30 officers almost a half-hour to quell Saturday night's fight between a Pomona group and another from Chino.

A Union Pacific Railroad employe was decapitated Sunday when he stumbled and fell beneath the wheels of a moving railroad car he was attempting to link with another in a City of Commerce yard.

Sheriff's deputies said the accident in which Thomas C. Macintosh, 22, of Alhambra, was killed, occurred in the company's yards near the Long Beach Freeway.

has offered it at a price of $750,000. But Lewis said it was hoped a private individual or firm would buy it.

The mayor noted that city law prohibits the removal from the city of certain fixtures of the inn which are considered of historical value — such as the ornate doors, windows and other permanent fixtures.

MAYOR LEWIS said he hopes Swig will not follow through with his plans, but added Swig appeared determined to do so.

The city has considered buying the hotel and Swig

Sun tan lotions can sting wallet

Bathers, check ingredients on label

By G. DAVID WALLACE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Americans are on the verge of a love affair in which they're certain to get burned.

They don't have to get burned by the object of their affection, the sun. But arrayed against their hopes of making it through the summer without pain are sun tan preparations which offer no protection; sunburn remedies whose curative powers are disputed; drugs, soaps and cosmetics which can make sun bathers super-sensitive, and their own ignorance.

AMERICANS spend more than $50 million a year looking for the right sun tan preparation, although an official of the Food and Drug Administration says. "There's nothing that will prevent a sunburn except staying out of the sun."

The American Medical Association won't go that far. It cautions moderation in exposure to the sun and says, "Properly applied sun tan lotion can be helpful in preventing a burn and promoting a tan if you use one suited to your needs."

That's the problem. "The selection of one brand of sun tan preparation over another is virtually a hit-and-miss procedure," said the AMA's Committee on Cosmetics.

The odds favor missing. An AMA survey of 10 stores turned up 56 different creams, lotions and oils of which 32 listed no sun-screening agent to protect against sunburn.

Claims made in the label on a sun tan preparation are a buyer's most important clue in lotion hunting.

UNDER federal law, if the label says a product prevents sunburn, the product is considered a drug. The label must list its active ingredients, which must include the chemicals called sunscreens. If a product's label says only that it promotes tanning, it is classified a cosmetic and is not required to list ingredient or protect against the sun.

Recent research has found the most effective sunscreens to be para-ami-nobenzoic acid and isomyl p-N, N-dimethylaminobenzoate in 65 to 95 per cent alcohol. Widely used other sunscreens include the salicylates, digalloyl trioleate and benzophenone compounds.

How widely the effectiveness of products that claim to prevent sunburn can vary was indicated by a study in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The study showed that three experimental formulas, which have since been marketed, filtered out as much as 80 per cent of the sun's burning rays. The more popular products in the same line provided about 10 per cent protection, with several others offering even less.

The study, done on human volunteers, said none of the 24 popular brands tested offered adequate protection for more than an hour, and 20 products afforded almost no protection for even 30 minutes when the subjects were sweating heavily.

THE MAKERS of tanning butters, mineral oils and baby oils promise help toward a deep, dark tan. But the AMA warns against overconfidence in products without sunscreens and notes that baby and mineral oils in particular "will not promote tanning or prevent burning."

The best protection against the sun, says the AMA, is gradual exposure beginning with 15 minutes a day for light-skinned persons and 20 minutes a day for medium-skinned persons, with exposures increasing by five minutes a day.

The AMA adds that it is possible to burn even after you are tanned and warns that the stain produced by artificial tanners containing a chemical called dihydroxyacetone offers no protection against the sun.

In its tips for sunbathing, the AMA lists the most potent hours of the sun as between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. solar time; notes the sun is 1 1/2 times as strong in the South as in the North, and warns that reflection from sand and water can induce a burn even if a person is sitting under a beach umbrella. Lightly overcast days can produce severe sunburns.

FOR THE overdone unfortunate, there is a wide array of sprays and lotions promising relief, but the promises are in dispute. Pfizer advertizes that its Unburn, one of the leading lotions and aerosols containing the pain-killer benzocaine, anesthetizes sunburn pain.

The Federal Trade Commission accused Pfizer of deceptive advertising last summer and produced at the subsequent hearing a series of doctors who testified there appears to be no evidence that Unburn and products similar to it work. Doctors called by Pfizer testified the remedies do apparently work.

The FTC hearing examiner decided in favor of Pfizer, but the agency's staff is appealing to the full commission.

The dangers of skin cancer and skin aging from persistent sunbathing have been cited often by researchers.

A lesser-known danger receiving more attention from doctors involves persons who experience sometimes severe reactions from products which can make an individual sensitive to the sun.

FOUR YEARS ago the FDA banned the use of chemical bithionol in cosmetics because it made people sun-sensitive. Dr. Leonard C. Harber of the New York University School of Medicine estimates 1,000 persons become sun-sensitive every year from ingredients in household products such as soaps, cosmetics, shampoos and medicated lotions.

More common than the sensitivity from household products are reactions triggered by prescription drugs like some tranquilizers and antibiotics and the diabetes drug tolbutamide. The AMA has cautioned persons taking prescription drugs to check with their doctors before sunbathing.

Pediatricians hit on swimming views

By CRAIG A. PALMER
United Press International

With swimming pools opening across the country this week, the nation's pediatricians are drawing fire for their stand against teaching children under age three how to swim.

The policy was adopted by the 12,000-member American Academy of Pediatrics and announced March 1, winning endorsement by the American Medical Association's committee on medical aspects of sports and by the American Red Cross.

Critics, many of them swimming teachers, are attacking the policy as unrealistic.

The doctors say they are concerned about parental overconfidence when a tot learns a few water tricks, the high drowning risks for infants, water contamination from uncontrolled body wastes, and the difficulty of teaching babies real water safety.

"I can't agree with all that because I've had too many children who enjoy swimming," said Mrs. Scott McCoy who teaches infants to swim in Bartlesville, Okla.

"I would hate to think that children are not allowed to swim because the AMA thinks it's wrong," she said. "They've been wrong before and could be wrong again."

herself "more than a little responsible for the sudden rash of diaper swim and gym classes," and supporting infant swim classes in the name of family togetherness.

AMA-Academy representative Dr. Thomas E. Shaffer wrote back: "I feel as you do that there should be personal contact and social interplay between infants and their mothers and fathers. I do not believe that a public swimming pool is a desirable place for it."

James L. Cornforth, a Jackson, Mich., YMCA official complained that "the incidences of a pool toilet are negligible and we handle some 175 children a week in the under-three category alone."

"The flak has been pretty steady since the statement was published," said Dr. Eugene F. Diamond, a Chicago pediatrician who headed the policy drafting committee.

"The feelings are very strong on the other side and we were prepared for this. We are not shooting from the hip."

Diamond dismisses the "family togetherness" argument and wonders if some parents are not more interested in teaching baby to swim as a fad.

"Some parents say this is the thing to do and they go ahead and do it without regard for the health of the child," said Diamond. "What we are basically interested in is preventing death by drowning."

For those parents who intend to go ahead and teach their toddlers to swim, Diamond advises they must realize "there is no real good proof that the fact he can swim will save his life if he is isolated in an emergency situation."

Medical Association have subverted the principles of equality, justice and democracy.

The statement said the health industry is not in business for people's health. It called for a national prepaid health care system.

"In 1969, health insurers made $2.5 billion profit-after taxes," the students said. "The drug industry, which sells its indispensable wares at prices often unjustifiably high, maintains one of the top three profit-making margins of any industry."

"We are a society in which health care is bought and sold as a commodity," the students said. "Citizens face the inhuman double jeopardy of simultaneous physical and financial hardship because of the fee for service system."

The statement termed the war in Vietnam "criminal" and said "the moral degradation it imposes on the American people cannot continue."

"As Americans and physicians," it said, "we are horrified by this destruction of human life."

THE STUDENTS said all medical schools should refuse to give the names of graduating doctors to draft boards until the war is over and a national health corps is established. This would provide an alternative to military service for all health workers, they said.

A national prepaid comprehensive health care system.

Establishment of community health centers, with physicians on a salary basis.

Reduction of drug prices and elimination of profits.

Free training for all health careers available to all segments of society.

Elimination of the traditional structure of health care occupations "with women, blacks and browns at the bottom and white, middle-class males at the top."

The Medical College of Wisconsin formerly was the Marquette University School of Medicine but now is privately operated.

Medic graduates rip AMA 'monopoly'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Forty-four of 104 graduating students at the Medical College of Wisconsin distributed a statement at their graduation ceremony Sunday criticizing health care in the United States and particularly the American Medical Association.

The students said they had sought permission to read the statement at the graduating ceremonies, but were turned down.

The statement said, "Inasmuch as they have held a monopoly control over health care delivery, physician and the American Medical Association have subverted the principles of equality, justice and democracy.
